Police Fight to Hold Back Thousands Who Crowd On Field to Greet Heroes

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., April 14.—

Bert Acosta and Clarence Chamberlin, American civilians, came back to earth in their tiny Bellanca designed and Wright motor monoplane today, after having remained in flight longer than any other aviators in history.

They broke first the American and then the world records for sustained flying and set a new mark some more than five hours better than any previous figure.

Their feat brought back to America a record which went to France in 1923.

Their plane was American built, the flyers Americans and the flight was made over American soil.

The unofficial landing time was 12:42:06 p. m. Those unofficial figures would make their record 51 hours, 1 minute, 25 seconds against the previous world's record of 45 hours, 11 minutes and 59 seconds, held by Landry and Drought of France.

They had broken the old record by five hours, 59 minutes, 26 seconds on the basis of the unofficial figures.

Steadily Circles Field
The plane, which last night had broken the American record and soon after daylight had passed the world's record for sustained flight, circled steadily around the field this morning and at noon still was flying at an altitude of about 2500 feet and a speed of about 70 miles an hour.

Its circles over the field gradually narrowed until about 12:40 it began swooping lower and lower. Then it turned into a glide and came down easily, on the west side of the Roosevelt field hangars.

A crowd of many thousands cheered wildly as police fought to hold them back.

G. M. Bellanca, builder of the plane, dashed onto the field in an automobile and, waving his arms and shouting, drove toward the plane anxious to be the first to greet the airmen.

For two days and two nights the tired, determined airmen had flown in circles above Roosevelt and Mitchell fields with occasional brief excursions outside their orbit. In brilliant sunlight and in the soft radiance of an unclouded Easter moon, their grey fuselages, trim winged planes had pursued their monotonous course, speeding onward, getting nowhere but putting the seconds and minutes and hours behind it.

The first reward for the aviators came at 9:34:40 o'clock last night, when they set a new American record. The old record, 36 hours and 59 minutes, set by Lieutenants MacReady and Kelly, U. S. A., had stood for four years almost to the

FLYER INDICTED ON SMUGGLING CHARGE

LOS ANGELES, April 14.—Samuel Rex Smith, Denver aviator, was held in the county jail here today in default of $3500 bond, following his indictment on charges of violating the U. S. immigration laws.

Smith, who at one time was mentioned prominently in the escape of Clara Phillips, "hammer murderer," was named with two other white men and four Chinese, the latter alleged to have been brought across the international boundary line from Mexico in an airplane.

According to federal authorities, Smith was piloting the plane when it was forced down near San Bernardino several weeks ago.

CONDITION OF EARL CARROLL LITTLE BETTER

Famous Broadwayite Still Lies Unconscious in Hospital

(By United Press)

GREENVILLE, S. C., April 14.—At 3:30 p. m., today, Earl Carroll still remained unconscious, his physicians announced.

At that time the theatrical producer had been in a state of coma 32 and one-half hours and inert on a hospital bed here since noon yesterday, when he was removed from the train taking him to the Atlanta federal prison.

Dr. C. O. Bates, one of the attending physicians, said he believed his patient "somewhat better."

Hope was expressed that before tonight the stricken theatrical producer might awake from his state of coma, which has baffled leading specialists of this city.

"He is beginning to move restlessly," Dr. Bates said. "This would seem to indicate improvement. He has also been given some slight nourishment."

If Carroll emerges from coma within the next few hours, his recovery will probably be rapid, Dr. Bates said. "I am sure that Carroll can be taken to Atlanta within a few days if he soon regains consciousness," said the physician.

Marshall William C. Hecht, who remained here with Carroll when he was taken from the prison car yesterday, said his prisoner would be removed to Atlanta to recuperate if he recovers sufficiently for the trip.

James Carroll, brother of Earl, insisted that the state of coma was the result of a complete nervous collapse, induced by weeks of depression, worry and work.

"I consider my brother's condition very grave," James said. "He is absolutely numb. I am extremely worried. I haven't had a wink of sleep all night."

Mrs. Carroll was to be at the bedside this noon, her brother-in-law said.

Carroll is under sentence of a year and a day in federal penitentiary on charges growing out of his famous Joyce Hawley bath tub party in New York.

Fellow Measure Passed by Senate

SACRAMENTO, April 14.—Slowly down by failure of Governor Young to sign the $194,000,000 state budget and release several score of appropriation measures clogging the calendar, the state senate today adopted the fellow measure crossing bill and several fish and game measures.

Bonds totaling $10,000,000 would be issued by the state to acquire rights-of-way and build bridges and railroad crossings in the primary road system under a measure by Senator Roy Fellom, of San Francisco, passed by a unanimous vote in the upper house.

FIRE DESTROYS BUILDINGS

MORGANTOWN, W. V., April 14.—Eight buildings were destroyed today by a fire which swept the business district of Morgantown, causing damage estimated at $2,000,000.

PETITIONS TO THE newly-elected school board, demanding that J. A. Cranston, superintendent of city schools, and D. K. Hammond, principal of the Santa Ana high school, be discharged, are being circulated in Santa Ana today.

Should the new board refuse to accede to the demands of the petitions, the petitioners assert "additional bonds for further school development and improvement will not be voted."

Names of the persons sponsoring the movement to oust Cranston and Hammond included Mrs. L. R. Crawford and Mrs. Ella Smith. At least half a dozen men and women are circulating the papers.

Business men, city and county officials and housewives have been called upon to sign the petitions. Many have refused to sign.

That the Parent-Teacher association is not back of the movement and is not in sympathy with it was evidenced in a statement issued this morning by Mrs. Fay R. Spangler, president of the city federation of P-T. A. Mrs. Spangler said:

"The Parent-Teacher association knows absolutely nothing about the movement. We are not back of it and are not in sympathy with the petitioners. The new board of education was elected by the voters of Santa Ana and we have faith enough in the board to leave matters pertaining to the education and school system of this city in their hands. The board is new and we believe it should be given the whole-hearted co-operation of every mother, father and teacher in the city. The hands of these men should not be tied."

The petition being circulated reads: "To the Honorable Board of Education of the City of Santa Ana: 'The undersigned, residents of Santa Ana school district and patrons of Santa Ana schools, do hereby state and represent to you honorable body that a change in the administration of the schools of Santa Ana is very necessary and desirable for the welfare of the said schools, and for that reason we respectfully request and urge that the present superintendent of schools of Santa Ana and the present principal of the Santa Ana high school, which the father had inherited from his father, Nelms Northcross."

Mr. Northcross received his grade school education in Orange. Finishing this, he entered and was graduated from Santa Ana high school. During his school days he was known as one of the school's best athletes. He was a graduate of the class of 1897.

At the outbreak of the Spanish-American war, Mr. Northcross volunteered for service with old Company L, Seventh regiment, California Volunteers, and served with this organization throughout the war. In 1899 he enlisted with the 35th U. S. Volunteer infantry, Company D, and served during the Philippine insurrection. He was

LONDON, April 14.—Unconfirmed reports that Japan was mobilizing because Russia was passing troops on the Manchurian frontier were published by the Daily Express today. The reports were circulating in London diplomatic circles, the Express said.

ORANGE COUNTY ROAD FORESTRY CHIEF IS DEAD

Robert Northcross Victim Of Sudden Illness in Santa Ana Home

Robert C. Northcross, 50, well known Santa Ana citizen and for the past 12 years in charge of highway forestry work in Orange county, died suddenly today at his home at 1318 Spurgeon street.

While Mr. Northcross' health had not been good for almost a month, his condition was not considered serious until yesterday and his death was a severe shock to hundreds who knew and admired him.

Death was produced by a complete blocking of the chief artery leading to the heart, attending physicians said.

Mr. Northcross is survived by his widow, Mrs. Eleanor S. Northcross, and one son, Robert Ham-mack Northcross. Mrs. Northcross is dean of women at the Santa Ana junior college.

A native of the state of Tennessee, where he was born at Trenton, on March 10, 1877, Mr. Northcross came to California with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Northcross, in 1881, settling on a ranch near Orange, which the father had inherited from his father, Nelms Northcross.

During the campaign that closed with the election of Dr. John Ball, M. A. Patton, Mrs. J. Dick Wilson, Dr. Roy S. Horton and George Dunton as members of the board of education, there was a report quite generally credited that friends of Superintendent Cranston had gotten together and were seeking the election of five candidates. These five were Dr. Ball, Dr. Patton, Mrs. Wilson, George Dunton and Fred H. Taylor. All of these, excepting Taylor, were elected. It has been learned since that at least two of the four were elected without having made any pledges in any way as to how they would vote on any appointments.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The Fall-Sinclair oil conspiracy trial date was postponed today in District of Columbia supreme court from April 25 to May 23. Over demands of the defendants' attorneys for an immediate trial, starting April 23, Justice William Hitz granted the continuance.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The government tried today to get the Fall-Sinclair Teapot Dome conspiracy trial postponed from April 25 until next fall and the defense countered with strong opposition, with the result arguments on the motion were set for this afternoon in District of Columbia supreme court.

Former Senator Atlee Pomerene, special government oil counsel said the government was "embarrassed" in asking the delay.

George P. Hoover, acting for the defendants, former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall and Harry Sinclair, oil millionaire, demanded the motion in affidavit form. District Attorney Peyton Gordon objected to this demand, but Justice William Hitz upheld a portion of the affidavit rule.

SANTIAGO, Chile, April 14.—A violent earthquake rocked Santiago at 1:30 a. m. today, taking a heavy toll in life and damage. More than 50 persons were killed and 100 injured, it was reported at 4 o'clock.

Deaths and injuries resulted principally from falling walls. Some buildings were cracked and others were wrecked by the shocks, which left half the city in darkness.

The quake, which came when most of the city was in bed, caused a panic throughout Santiago.

Within a few minutes after the shock, the streets were crowded with persons, many in night clothes. Open squares and parks were thronged for the rest of the night, although some returned to their beds.

The streets in many places were strewn with wreckage, delaying fire apparatus on its way to blazes, which started after the quake.

Dispatches from Valparaiso, Concepcion and Antofagasta, which however, suffered little damage.

2 KILLED, 50 HURT IN MENDOZA QUAKE

BUENOS AIRES, April 14.—Mendoza police reported two persons dead and 50 injured today after an earthquake had shaken the province of Mendoza. The city of Mendoza, capital of the province, was considerably damaged, a dispatch said.

Dispatches from Valparaiso, Chile, today said an one-minute earthquake at 1:45 a. m. destroyed several houses and caused cornices to fall into the street. The city was in darkness after the quake. Dispatches did not say whether there had been any casualties.

A similar quake was reported from Concepcion.

CHICAGO, April 14.—Mrs. Anne Walsh Carrington today was granted a divorce from her millionaire husband on grounds of cruelty.

The decision by Judge George Fred Rush came after both Mrs. Carrington and Colonel Edward C. Carrington announced they had agreed to drop mutual charges of infidelity.

Carrington also charged desertion against his former wife. A financial settlement was agreed upon but neither would announce the amount involved.

Seek to Prohibit Sports Publicity

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., April 14.—A bill to prohibit the transmission of sports results over telegraph and telephone wires in this state was introduced in the Florida house of representatives today by Speaker Fred H. Davis.

The measure would also make it illegal to publish results in newspapers.

It would bar the transmission of lineups and results of "any contest of speed, skill, power or endurance of man and beast."

Horse and dog races, boxing matches, football and basketball games are specifically mentioned.

Killing Case at Fresno Nears End

FRESNO, April 14.—The fate of Philip Bier, on trial here on three counts of manslaughter, will probably be in the hands of a jury before night. Testimony at the trial was to be concluded this morning.

Bier is accused of causing the deaths of Mrs. Ruby Weems, 26, and her two children, June and Kelly, in an automobile accident near here.

Bus Blown from Road, 14 Injured

JUMP MAY CAUSE DEATH

FRESNO, April 14.—The condition of John Vezetti, 35, Big Creek, who, according to police, attempted to suicide by jumping from the window of his room on the third floor of a local hotel, was said to be "critical" by hospital attendants this morning.

ROCK SPRINGS, Texas, April 14.—Simple pine boards, driven into freshly turned earth and with names scribbled on them in lead pencil, mark the graves of identified dead in Tuesday night's cyclone, while workers today continued to search for others who may have fallen.

Of the 73 known dead only 45 have been identified. The toll is expected to go higher.

Last night the town was under semi-martial law. Maj. E. E. Edmunds, commanding the military unit sent to Rock Springs from Fort Clark, ordered all persons from the streets at 7 p. m., except officials carrying Edmunds' personal pass.

DEATH TOLL IN TEXAS TORNADO PLACED AT 60

160 Injured Are Accounted For; Score Probably Fatally Hurt

(By United Press)

ROCK SPRINGS, Tex., April 14.—Representing the appearance of an army camp in time of war, Rock Springs continued its search for dead today, with the known list definitely placed at 60 and with 160 injured accounted for as a result of Tuesday's disastrous tornado.

Of the injured, a score are suffering from such serious injuries that they may die. Army and private surgeons and doctors conducting the work of caring for the injured fear that more dead may be found in the debris of the town before work of cleaning up finally is completed.

Soldiers stood on guard today while the clean-up work continued. Several units arrived here yesterday, with Red Cross nurses and ambulances on hand, and there was a martial appearance to the village. The injured were being taken from Rock Springs to San Antonio in special trains, ambulances and even by airplane.

Three of the injured died in San Antonio hospitals last night and two more died en route to San Antonio. There are 55 dead here, the most of whom will receive burial ceremonies today.

The tent was destroyed by a fire which followed the explosion.

DOHENY SEEKS OIL TANK REPAYMENT

WASHINGTON, April 14.—E. L. Doheny was reported here today planning to ask congress to reimburse him for the Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, oil tanks he built for the navy in connection with the Elk Hills naval oil reserve deal.

Because of this move, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur has sought advice from government counsel in the so-called scandal cases and from several senators on acceptance of bids opened at San Francisco this week for Elk Hills oil to fill the Doheny tanks. The upshot of the secret conference was an indication that the bids would be rejected and the tanks left empty until Doheny's move is decided.

Workers Thought Dead Until Communication Made By Means of Drill Hole

BARRIERS ARE BUILT

Pumps Rushed to Workings And Preparations Made To Rescue Trapped Party

(By United Press)

HENRYETTA, Okla., April 14.—Twenty-six miners, trapped 110 feet underground in the shaft of the "Old Wise" mine, one mile from here, are all alive and awaiting rescue, according to word from mine headquarters here today.

Communication with the trapped miners was established through a drill hole shortly after noon and work was passed up that all the men had escaped drowning when the waters of McDonald creek rushed down the shaft.

The men also reported there were 26 in the party. Mine officials earlier had placed the figure at 23.

The men told rescuers they were safe and had erected barriers against the water.

Their only means of exit, however, is through the water filled slope to an entry way at its lower end, 175 feet from the top of the shaft. Water fills the shaft, however, 20 feet past the one entry.

The lone level in which the miners are trapped follows the coal vein upward and the entombed men are in the upper part of the level.

Immediate preparations were made here to rush aid to the trapped miners. Pumps were rushed to the workings to clear the shaft of water.

Reports from the shaft said the shaft quickly filled when the waters of the creek broke their banks and rushed over the land.

Normally the mine employs 40 men, but many of these were not in the mine at the time the water entered.

Chaplin Must File Answer by Monday

LOS ANGELES, April 14.—Charlie Chaplin must file answer to his wife's divorce complaint by Monday or lose the right to contest the sensational suit.

In a decision handed down late today by Superior Judge Edwin Hahn, an effort to gain a new postponement in the divorce action brought by Lita Grey Chaplin was denied, leaving the comedian at the mercy of his wife's attorneys with no alternative, it was said.

The action came in a motion to void the original service of summons on the grounds that amendments to the divorce complaint had nullified the service.

in the islands on this campaign for 18 months.

Returned Here in 1903. On his return to the United States he was employed by a wholesale electric supply concern in Denver, Colo., where he remained until 1905, then returning to Orange county.

Mr. Northcross entered Occidental college in 1905, but 1906 found him back in uniform with Company L, which had been sent to San Francisco to participate in relief work during the earthquake and fire. During the same year he went to Mexico to work with the engineers of construction on the Yaqui river railroad.

In 1909, Mr. Northcross again returned to Orange county and to a ranch in Orange. He remained there until 1914 when he moved to Los Angeles for a year. Returning here in 1915 he was employed by the county of Orange in the forestry department. Since that time he has gone ahead in the work and at the time of his death was in charge of all forestry work in the county.

Beautiful County Park. During the past several years most of his work has been done at the Orange county park. He was a naturalist and his chief hobby was the planting and the propagating of trees. Most of the beautifying of the park was accomplished under his direction.

Northcross had always been active in city park work and at the time of his death was a member of the city park commission. He also was a member of the board of directors of the Santa Ana Community Players.

In addition to his widow and son, Mr. Northcross is survived by his mother, Mrs. Rebecca O. Northcross, Los Angeles, and four sisters, Mrs. Harriett Oatway, Owensmouth, Calif.; Mrs. Lucy Hare, Los Angeles; Mrs. Ellie Powell, Long Beach, and Mrs. Marjorie Joplin, deputy county treasurer here. He also leaves a brother, Marshall Northcross, in South America. Mrs. Hazel Northcross, of the First National bank, was a sister-in-law.

Garden Spot Is Created Through Huge Dirt Dam

BELLE FOURCHE, S. D., April 11.—Like the ugly witch who turned out to be a good fairy, an unsightly wall of dirt, the largest earthen dam in the world, has been a necromancer for the arid acres of northwestern South Dakota.

Built in the Roosevelt administration, it made a garden spot of the country it serves and turned range country into a garden spot where orchards, small grain and alfalfa have brought prosperity. Now a sugar beet factory is going up near here and much idle land is being cultivated for beet production.

are entangled in the whole European disarmament squabble which may determine the ability of our nearest neighbors and best customers to keep the peace on which our own safety and prosperity depend. There is no way to hide out from this troubled world, and there is no way but wise, informed and resolute guidance to steer our way in it. With the best-known, and one of the best-equipped of the world's steersmen at hand, it would be preposterous not to insist on using him.

WORLD FLIGHT RECORD SET BY U. S. AVIATORS

day. It was set April 16 and 17, 1927.

At varying speeds and at various heights, Acosta and Chamberlin kept up their round above the fields—spurred in the monotony of changeless ground below by thoughts of the greatly different, but in some respects perhaps easier, flight they hope to make on a non-stop trip from New York to Paris for the $25,000 Orteig prize.

The plane was flying at an altitude of about 1500 feet and was over the northwest corner of the field when the record was broken.

As the exact second—39 seconds after 42 minutes at 6 o'clock, at which second the record was tied—passed, Carl F. Schory, secretary of the contest committee of the National Aeronautical association, turned to the crowd and announced:

"To the best of my knowledge the men in this plane have shattered the endurance record for sustained flying."

Comply With Requirements. "They have complied with all the requirements. The International association always has accepted our timings on record flights and presumably will accept them this time. "I am confident the record is all right."

Then the crowd of 60-odd broke loose.

Hats were hurled high in the air, but the cheers could not have audible in the noisy cockpit of the plane.

Mechanics who had worked on the plane scarcely could contain themselves. A few minutes after passing the record time, the plane was throttled down to a speed estimated at 55 miles an hour. Evidently the gasoline was getting extremely low, but the flyers were doing everything possible to keep aloft long enough to set a better record.

G. M. Bellanca, designer of the plane, announced a few minutes after the new record was set that the same plane, reconditioned, would start its attempted New York-Paris non-stop flight "near the first of next month."

"The same pilots may make the trip," he said.

Acosta and Chamberlin at 10:30 a. m. had 10 gallons of gasoline left in their plane and expected to remain aloft for an hour and 20 minutes longer.

At that time a Wright whirlwind service plane, driven by Leroy Thompson and Kenneth Blaine, flew within 50 feet of the Acosta-Chamberlin monoplane. On the side of the service plane was a huge placard reading, "How much gas?"

Signals Amount of Gas. When the Wright plane approached, Acosta, who was driving the record setting machine, aroused Chamberlin, who was resting. Chamberlin read the sign and signalled with his fingers that he had 10 gallons.

Both aviators were smiling broadly and radiated happiness. The plane was then flying 70 miles an hour and at that rate consumes about seven gallons per hour.

ARMY PLANE OVERTURNS WHEN MAKING LANDING. ROOSEVELT FIELD, New York, April 14.—A Curtiss biplane, carrying two army officers, who were circling around the little Bellanca monoplane in which Bert Acosta and Clarence Chamberlin today set a world's endurance flight record, overturned when landing.

Both of the passengers escaped uninjured by jumping. The crowd thought it was the Bellanca plane and dashed onto the field, only to be greeted by the two army flyers, both unhurt.

DE PINEDO PRAISES FEAT OF AMERICANS. SAN FRANCISCO, April 14.—The new world's record for endurance flight, established today, reveals "the high efficiency obtained by the American aeronautical industry," Com. Francesco De Pinedo, Italian world flyer, told the United Press.

"Com. Francesco De Pinedo expresses his great admiration for the achievement of Acosta and Chamberlin and the De Bianca Wright machine, which has not only beaten the world's record for endurance but has made a step ahead in the process of long distance transportation and communication. The commander stresses long distance communication in particular."

"The feat shows the high efficiency obtained by the American aeronautical industry, pioneers in the business of flying. The distance they flew without coming to earth must have approximated 5000 miles, which is a sign that transatlantic and trans-Pacific flying may be made practical in the near future."

"The feat was marvelous, daring, and the commander sends the two Americans his heartiest congratulations."

Surrey, England, plans an anti-mosquito war.

AVIATORS PLAN MANY FLIGHTS AROUND GLOBE

NEW YORK, April 14.—If policemen were stationed along the airway crossroads of the world this year they would have a busy time directing traffic as the birdmen of four continents zoom along the atmospheric highways to bring new glory to their homelands.

"Even if only a majority of the proposed flights are actually made," an official of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America said, "there will be more countries represented in long flights this year than ever before."

Besides the flights already announced, there also are a number of other noteworthy flights planned for the year, the details of which cannot yet be made public. Among these flights will be attempts to break existing distance, duration, altitude and speed records."

Flights Listed.

Included in the flights already announced are a race across the Atlantic, flights to the North and South poles, a circuit of the Atlantic, a jump over Mount Everest, a duration flight from France to India-China, a Pacific race from the west coast to Hawaii and a Buenos Aires-New York round trip.

The Raymond Orteig prize of $25,000 for the first to fly between Paris and New York will be contended for by several nations. Captain Rene Fonck of France, whose attempt last year halted as he took off when his giant plane overturned, announced that he will try again this year. Commander Richard E. Byrd who flew over the North Pole last year, and Commander Noel Davis have announced their intention of attempting to capture the honor for America. Captain C. A. Lindbergh, reserve officer and air mail pilot of St. Louis, is another American who plans to try for the prize.

Two Attempts Planned.

Two attempts are proposed for the Summer to establish regular transatlantic air passenger and mail service between Germany and the United States.

Other proposed transatlantic non-stop flights which have no connection with the Orteig prize have been announced by Major Franco, Spanish aviator who flew across the Atlantic, and who hopes to fly direct from the Spanish coast to New York, and by the Italian, DeBernardi, who expects to fly from Rome to New York in a hydroplane.

Captains Estevez and Barboran of the Spanish Air Force also hope to fly from Spain to New York and thence to Cuba.

There probably will be no such conception of polar flights as there was last year, but already one flight is assured for the North Pole region and there are two possibilities of South Pole flights.

Captain George H. Wilkins and his party, who left for the Arctic to resume their search for land in the polar regions begun last year, are still missing north of Point Barrow, Alaska.

Commander Byrd is planning a South Pole flight, but his entrance into the Orteig race may necessitate postponing that for another year. Antonio Pauly of Argentina also plans a South Pole flight, but that, too, is indefinite and may be delayed.

Three attempts are proposed to fly to Hawaii. C. K. Vance, air mail pilot, has announced his intention of making a noon-to-noon flight from San Francisco to Honolulu; former members of the Royal Air Force from Canada and Australia have planned to try for the same point from Vancouver, and Lee Scheenhair, former Army flier, will make an attempt backed by the San Diego Chamber of Commerce.

Non-Stop Record.

Both British and Spanish air officers have been reported preparing for an attempt at the non-stop record by flying over India. The present record of 3345 miles is held by two Frenchmen who last year flew from Paris to Jask, a Persian port in the Arabian Sea. French fliers plan to circle the Atlantic by air, taking in Dakar, Buenos Aires, Panama and New York, a distance of 40,000 kilometers.

A round trip from Buenos Aires to New York and return is planned by Jorge Carliotte of France, and Hector Pelraio, Argentine. Pelletier D'Olisy, French flier, proposes a 12,000-mile flight to India-China with only one stop in India, each leg of his journey being far longer than the Paris-New York flight.

Flight to Samoa.

The Royal Australian air force proposes a flight to Samoa in a seaplane via New Guinea, Solomon Islands, New Hebrides, New Caledonia and Fiji.

One flight is proposed with height as its purpose. Jean Calizo, who holds the French altitude record, intends to attempt to fly over Mount Everest, 29,000 feet above the Indian plain. Photographs will be taken in the hope that they may be of assistance to expeditions on foot attempting to scale the unreach height.

Notable among the flights already completed this year or now underway are the following: The American Goodwill flight to South America, the DePinedo four-continent flight, round trip from France to Madagascar completed in February by Lieutenant Marc Bernard of France, round the world flight begun by Sarmiento Belres of Portugal and the flight of the Uruguayan, Larre-Borges, nine shrdeltaish sh et s shr shr

The largest ball room in the world is to be built at Chicago. It will cost more than a million dollars and will accommodate 7500 dancers.

Ideal leg measurements for a girl 5 feet 6 inches tall are: Thigh, 20 inches; knee, 14 inches; calf, 13 1-2 inches; ankle, 8 inches.

'OLD GRADS' TO GATHER AGAIN AROUND TABLE

Members of the Santa Ana High School Alumni association today were anticipating an event of Saturday, June 11, with keen delight, following announcement that the date had been selected for the annual dinner and banquet of the organization. The function will be held at the Ebell club-house.

The date was selected at a meeting of the executive committee held last night at the home of Mrs. J. M. Burlew and tentative plans were discussed. Men and women who graduated from the local school a quarter of a century ago will be honored guests. In other words, the honored guests will be member of the 1902 class.

A committee will organize an entertainment program, in which dancing and cards will be included. Many happy reunions of men and women who were in school here together and who have not seen each other since graduation is one of the pleasing features anticipated by members.

The executive committee members present were W. K. Hillyard, chairman; Mrs. May Burlew, secretary; D. W. Tubbs, Miss Blanche McDowell, Lucien Flippin, John Newcomer, Mrs. Arta Walton, Miss Ada McFadden and Miss Mary Jane Owens.

HAPPY

Mrs. Hannah Josepho

SHE WAS HAPPY LONG BEFORE RICHES CAME

NEW YORK, April 14.—Hannah Josepho's husband recently got a check for a million dollars. Henry Morgenthau, Gen. James G. Harbord and John T. Underwood gave it to him for his invention of the photomaton machine.

But the million dollar check means nothing to 22-year-old Hannah. Why? Well, you see, Hannah Josepho thinks money is not the only thing in the world. She already has that priceless possession—happiness. A bride of eight months, she is married to "the finest husband in the world."

Mrs. Josepho's reaction to a million dollars plumped down into her lap is a shrug of the shoulders. But upon mention that she is a bride she becomes voluble.

"It is still a beautiful dream," she muses. "My life is so happy that every now and then I feel I must be reading a novel or seeing a wonderful movie. I pinch myself to make sure it really is Hannah."

"My father had known Anatol for two years," Hannah related. "Father often told me of the struggling Russian dreamer who slaved nights on inventions and worked days running a chain of picture galleries. Last June, father invited Anatol to a party at our house. Two nights later he proposed. A fortnight later we were married."

Finally Mrs. Josepho conceded that Anatol's money will do a lot of good. "But we have no plans made now for what we will do with it," she said.

"What is money after all?" Nothing—absolutely nothing, compared to the finest thing in life—happiness.

MONEY MISSING IN CRASH MAY BE S. A. MAN'S

Investigation into the disappearance of $8000 stolen in Findlay, O., and declared by the brother of the dead man to have been in Delta about the waists of David W. Willis and Bernice Miller when they were killed in an automobile accident Sunday near Long Beach, became of increased interest to Santa Anans today when it was learned that C. F. Jackson, whose large department store it was which was looted, is residing here.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson are living at 520 East Chestnut avenue. He is president of the C. F. Jackson company of Findlay and has actively aided detectives to trace desperados who murdered Peter Grant, a nightwatchman, in the Jackson store January 31.

Jackson attended an inquest over the bodies of Willis and Miss Miller yesterday at which Edward Willis, Long Beach barber, a brother of the dead man, testified that David Willis had a money belt containing $8000 and that the woman had a similar belt with a large sum when they left his shop Sunday morning.

When Miss Miller's body was placed in an ambulance, it was virtually nude, spectators told police, although Willis's clothes had not been disturbed. Both money belts were missing. The sum of $784 in currency was found in one of the woman's stockings.

Further search for these amounts were being conducted by Long Beach police and detectives on the theory that ghouls had been active following the crash.

Jackson said today that fingerprints taken in his store after the murder tallied with those of Willis, who, with the Miller woman, had been bulletined by Findlay police on charges of participating in the robbery. Two Chicago thugs are believed to have actually "cracked" the safe, Jackson said.

ROLLER SKATING SWEEPS CHICAGO

CHICAGO, April 14.—Comes now an inter-crossing traffic problem for Chicagoans and suburbanites who depend for locomotion on shoeleather. After successfully dodging through avenues of automobiles, they are finding themselves confronted with another form of locomotion, not equipped with four-wheel brakes.

Housewives, college students and school youngsters have succumbed to a roller skate fad.

The new craze is being laid to the ban on college students using automobiles. The housewives explain it is not entirely a fad with them, because they can save time and get exercise and pleasure in doing their shopping.

Dr. John W. Pollard, Evanston health commissioner, has endorsed roller skating as a health-building sport and for the benefit of the ladies, he suggests, great as a reducer.

Floral Pageant to Be Featured at Ebell Spring Market

One of the most interesting things in regard to the annual flower show and spring market to be presented by the Ebell society on Thursday and Friday of next week, is the fact that entertainment will be offered during the evening hours, so that patrons may have a valid excuse for lingering amidst the beautiful surroundings.

For it is a foregone conclusion that the surroundings will be extraordinarily beautiful. With the wealth of spring bloom, the artistic abilities of Ebell women, and the ardor with which every individual member is entering into the plan to make this the finest exhibit yet, it can't possibly be anything else but beautiful.

Thursday evening will feature a style show, and the climax of the two days' event will be reached Friday night, when Miss Adeline Leone McAdam, principal of the McAdam School of Dancing, of which the Santa Ana Ebell club classes form a branch, will present a floral pageant beginning at 7:45 o'clock.

A group of dancers from Miss McAdam's Los Angeles and Long Beach classes will aid the local students in presenting the program, the first part of which will be devoted to solo numbers by advanced pupils. The second part will be the "Ballet des Fleurs" and will open with an ensemble number.

"Dance of the Butterflies and Flowers," by Barbara Jean Davis, Roberta Tuthill, Barbara Lambert, Jeanette Klatt, Teresa LeGaye and Elizabeth Borchard.

"Spring Flowers" will be danced by Billie Lacy, Mary Beth Newcom, Caroline Borchard, Wilma Borchard, Lucille Lambert and Mary Jean Stever. "Flitting Butterflies" will be danced by Barbara Jean Davis, Roberta Tuthill, Barbara Lambert, Jeanette Klatt, Teresa LeGaye and Elizabeth Borchard.

"Rose Garlands" will feature the Misses Mary Tuthill, Betty Smedley, Mary Dierker, Damaris Peek, May Maag, Kate Benton, Neva Fay Gerdes, Martha Tuthill, Betty Hill, Elizabeth Downey, Constance Barnett, and Dorine Haupt.

Those who will exemplify "American Beauty Roses" will be the Misses Evelyn Metzgar, Eleanor Metzgar, Betty Hoy, Marguerite Lentz, Helen Hill, Mary Louise Budrow, Dorothy Beals Elaine Smith, Juliet Evans, Myrtle Ketchum, Enid Twist and Barbara Rowland, and the final number of the program will be the "Baby Flowers," Natalie Nelson, Aileen Smith and Master Paul Schwartz, introducing the grand finale and tableau.

Ebell members have been busy for weeks past, preparing costumes and floral garlands for the dance numbers and anticipate a crowded auditorium for the feature.

Birthday Surprise Planned by Friends

The birthday of Mrs. Frank Trujillo was celebrated recently in pleasant fashion when a group of friends gathered at her home, 1004 East Washington avenue, and made her the honoree at a party.

Bridge was the entertainment during the earlier hours of the evening, and was followed by music by several talented guests.

Late in the evening, enchiladas and other Spanish dishes were served, and finally a gleaming white birthday cake was cut and served with striped fruits.

Mrs. Trujillo was presented with several pretty and useful gifts by her friends who numbered a dozen or more.

Belgium has 16,600 diamond mills and more than 700 workshops for cutting the stones.

New Home in Orange Is Made Setting For Party

Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Franke, who recently disposed of their property on North Main street to take possession of a handsome new home on East Chapman avenue, Orange, were completely surprised a few evenings ago, when a group of Santa Ana friends invaded that home and staged a party.

Mr. and Mrs. Franke graciously conducted their guests on a tour of inspection of their home, which is of stucco in Spanish style. They found the Spanish atmosphere maintained in all the furnishings, even to the quaint old lantern hanging from the eucalyptus beams in the patio, but the kitchen, which fascinated the feminine guests, expressed the last word in modern equipment.

One game was introduced to vary the "visiting" the nerve-steadying stunt of carrying small Easter eggs on a knife blade to the far end of the living room. The guests had planned and brought a "supper of delicious home-made tamales, wafers and other, as appropriate to the surroundings.

Mr. Franke is on the staff of the Orange News. He and Mrs. Franke were both congratulated upon their lovely home, and offered friendly wishes for future success and pleasure in the new location.

The following friends were present: Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Crozier, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Day, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dunlap, Mr. and Mrs. George House, Mr. and Mrs. R. I. Matthews and Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Irvin.

Ebell Section Hears Talk on Rugs

Second household economics section members of Ebell society, yesterday shared a valuable and interesting program with such members of the organization as wished to join them at the clubhouse, to hear an address on rugs by J. H. Minassian of Los Angeles, a lecturer in the manual arts department of the University of Southern California.

Thirty-two members of the section were present to enjoy an appetizing luncheon planned by a hostess group composed of Mrs. Elmer Barr Burns, Mrs. James I. Allen, Mrs. Frederick Eley and Mrs. A. N. Zerman. All business matters were discussed at the luncheon hour in order to leave the afternoon free for the speaker.

Reasons for the widely varying designs in rugs, were explained by Mr. Minassian, as being governed by the geographical location and surroundings of the weavers. The Bokhara rugs for instance, he declared to be brilliant in color and monotonous in design, because the people lived in a country of such deadly monotony so far as natural scenery went, but with amazing colors in the landscape. Rugs woven by mountain peoples, take on the strength and vividness of the surroundings, and to carry it farther, the speaker pointed out how the centuries of culture and civilization behind the Persian people, lent their rugs a beauty and refinement of design that no others could boast.

Illustrating his talk, the distinguished guest displayed a number of beautiful rugs varying from a rare one of the sixteenth century to products of the modern weaver's art.

Students Plan Party And Pretty Gift For Teacher

When Miss Harriett Elder, a teacher in the Business Institute, yesterday accepted the invitation of Miss Marie McDonald, to lunch with her at Ketter's, she never suspected that she was amiably falling in with well-laid plans of a group of her pupils.

But arriving at Ketter's, Miss McDonald failed to stop at the counter or in one of the small booths, so her guest followed unquestioningly, even when the way led to the gold room. And it was there that the surprise really took place, for the rest of the merry young conspirators were grouped in readiness for their arrival.

Miss Elder was given place of honor at a table centered with white daisies and wild lilac, and an enjoyable luncheon was served. A handsome birthday cake, iced in pink and white, had been provided by the hostesses to form a feature of the sweets course.

The final surprise came when Miss Elder was presented with a handsome bracelet in old Dutch silver with blue stones, the gift of the hostess group, the Misses Lucille Bales, Marie McDonald, Dorothy Lutz, Marian Stanley, Malinda Miller, Lydia Mohr, Ruth Wilson, Marguerite Smith, Cornelia Bode, Dorothy Heide and Mrs. Olive Rossi.

Sharing the hospitality of Mrs. Rankin were her honoree, Miss Baker, Mrs. Bertha Baker, of Los Angeles; Mrs. C. W. Baker, Hollywood; Mrs. Earl Murray, Long Beach; Mrs. Mary Lovering and Mrs. Max Royer, Fullerton; Miss Marvel Baker, Miss Hazel Baker, Miss Frances Baker, Mrs. E. S. Baker, Mrs. Anna Baker, Mrs. J. Howard Turner and Mrs. R. A. Cushman, Santa Ana.

At the conclusion of the pleasant luncheon hour, Mrs. Rankin and her guests went to the home of Mrs. E. S. Baker, 719 Spurgeon street, where the afternoon sped to the accompaniment of friendly chat and reminiscences.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

United Presbyterian
The Women's Missionary society of the United Presbyterian church met yesterday afternoon in the church parlors. The Ladies' Aid society held a meeting at 10 a. m., when members engaged in quilting.

At noon a very delightful luncheon was served; beautiful sweet peas and ranunculus were used in decorating. At 2 p. m., the Missionary society was called to order by the president, Mrs. McPeak. The devotional service was led by Mrs. Luther Kellogg on the subject, "The Divine Platform."

Mrs. R. S. Thomson conducted the meditation hour on "Tithing."

It was announced that the Federation of Missionary societies will be held on Thursday, April 28, at 10 o'clock, in the First Presbyterian church. All members are urged to attend this meeting. Mrs. McPeak read a letter from Mrs. Oylor of the Sudan mission field.

The Easter pageant, "Dawning," will be given on Friday evening and an invitation is extended to all to attend.

Mrs. O. S. Johnson was leader of the program. The subject was "Moslem Women."

Miss Myra Gibson read an article on "Islam and Christianity."

Mrs. E. H. Prince's subject was "Causes for Encouragement." Mrs. Johnson spoke on the subject of "Moslem Women."

Mrs. Jessie Duckett read a paper, "The Crusade of Evangelism," which closed the program.

Rosalind Kellogg had charge of the prayer cycle. Delegates appointed to attend the Federation of Missionary societies on April 28, were Mrs. M. M. Tidball, Mrs. Scott Torrens, Mrs. T. L. Warren and Mrs. Jessie Duckett. The next meeting will be held May 4.

Guest from Minnesota Is Complimented at Easter Luncheon

Complimenting Miss Laura Baker of Northfield, Minn., who is making an extended visit with Santa Ana friends and relatives, Mrs. Eliza Rankin yesterday entertained at a luncheon of much charm, at the Rose Arbor Tea room, 2033 North Main street.

An Easter motif chosen for the affair, was expressed in yellow flowers and slender yellow candles, and in special features of the menu, such as an unusual Easter salad, and the small yellow chickens that garnished the ice cream of the sweets course.

At the conclusion of the pleasant luncheon hour, Mrs. Rankin and her guests went to the home of Mrs. E. S. Baker, 719 Spurgeon street, where the afternoon sped to the accompaniment of friendly chat and reminiscences.

Sharing the hospitality of Mrs. Rankin were her honoree, Miss Baker, Mrs. Bertha Baker, of Los Angeles; Mrs. C. W. Baker, Hollywood; Mrs. Earl Murray, Long Beach; Mrs. Mary Lovering and Mrs. Max Royer, Fullerton; Miss Marvel Baker, Miss Hazel Baker, Miss Frances Baker, Mrs. E. S. Baker, Mrs. Anna Baker, Mrs. J. Howard Turner and Mrs. R. A. Cushman, Santa Ana.

Those Exchangeettes and Exchangeettes who last night absented themselves from the club party at the Sprig Duck club, were today wearing expressions of pronounced gloom, as they listened to enthusiastic accounts of the festivity.

For it was one of the merriest parties given by the service club for many moons, and all that attended were loud in their appreciation of the plans of the committee in charge, Cliff Phillips, Stanley Clem, Don Juden and G. K. Scovel.

It was through the courtesy of Exchangeettes Phillips and Scovel, members of the duck club, that it was possible to stage the party there. To be in keeping with the simplicity of their surrounding, the merry-makers arrived in rustic attire, until the array of country swains and their gingham gowned sweethearts, was quite amazing.

Card tables were grouped around a blazing log fire, and bridge introduced. The committee had chosen very attractive rewards for special scores, and Mrs. William Rohrbacker took the first of them, a pair of silver candlesticks with yellow candles to complete the gift.

Berle Morthland, club president, took second honors, and received a pillow cover embroidered in soft colors in conventional design, and "Gene Douglas received consolation gift of an embroidered apron which he donned at once and wore during the remainder of the evening.

A variety of sandwiches with their accompanying olives and pickles, coffee, ice cream and cake formed the supper menu served by the committee members, and followed by one of the liveliest features of the evening, a raffle conducted by Exchangeettes Phillips. This was productive of much fun, if little cash, for the descriptions which Mr. Phillips gave of the various articles, aroused the interest and excitement of everyone to fever heat. Bidding became wild when Mrs. John Wehrlly won one of a pair of theater tickets, and the other was yet to be secured. Dr. Wehrlly offered vast sums as inducement to the winner of the second ticket, to part with it, but lost interest when Miss Helen Walker was the fortunate one, and failed to redeem his promises. Miss Walker and Mrs. Wehrlly immediately began to plan their theater party.

Those enjoying the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Berle Morthland, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Clem, Dr. and Mrs. Cassius Paul, Mr. and Mrs. William Rohrbacker, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ragan, Dr. and Mrs. John L. Wehrlly, Mr. and Mrs. James Mahoney, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Eckel, Miss Helen Walker, Mrs. Eleanor Elliott, Miss Virginia Craig, Miss Patsy Swales, Messrs. PARTY LEADERS IN WASHINGTON GETTING BUSY

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Party weather maps are beginning to reveal unmistakable signs of an early spring and a warm summer in presidential politics.

A generous handful of months still must pass before local primary and convention have developed the respective strengths of those who aspire to leadership in the presidential year 1928, but already the torchlights have been fired in many a far precinct, and Washington is filled with questionings.

Just at the moment three searching interrogations stand at the head of the questionnaire of the politicians:

Will Coolidge run again?

Will prohibition be a predominant issue?

Will Governor Smith's religion prove a determining factor in his candidacy?

Many diverse answers to these questions are obtainable among the supposedly well-informed in the national capital. There are those who think they know, and those who hope they know, and those who candidly concede that they can only guess. But they all agree that it will be exceedingly fascinating to observe what changes time will make in a political picture which today, 14 months in advance of the nominating season, presents so many high lights to catch the political eye.

Shows Coolidge

As it stands in its uncompleted state, this picture presents President Coolidge silently busying himself with China, Nicaragua and the budget while his friends talk unceasingly of another term for him and his potential opponents make their plans on the assumption that he will be a candidate; Governor Smith, taking a night off amid his assiduous labors at Albany, to pen a yet-unpublished pronouncement of his conception of the tenets of the Roman Catholic church of which he is a member, as they might relate to a man in the presidency; and both Republican and Democratic chieftains pooh-poohing the idea that prohibition will become a party issue while two distinguished Republicans, Senator Borah and Nicholas Murray Butler, debate that very question before applauding voters, and such celebrated Democrats as Senator Glass and Edwards keep up a long-range wet and dry argument by means of statement and interview.

Nor are these the only important unknown quantities. Republicans are wondering what will come of the Lowden boom, which within the week has emerged from its native west to set up a branch headquarters in New York, the center of a district that in 1920 gave the former Illinois governor some of his most able support. If the Lowden candidacy proves a washout, ask the politicians. Will Vice President Dawes, also a McNary-Haugen supporter, step into the breach; and again, if Coolidge steps out, will Secretary Hoover or some other wheelhorse of the administration fall heir to his leadership?

Two Enigmas

On the Democratic side there are at least two major enigmas—whether the McAdoo legions which fought so valiantly in 1920 and 1924 again will go into action in 1928; and just what presidential maneuvering from the expected front of Missouri Senator "Jim" Reed of Missouri. To complicate matters, the usual Democratic phalanx of favorite son candidates includes this year such unusual repeaters-in-office as Govs. Ritchie of Maryland and Donahoe of Ohio.

In the end, Washington's speculation on all of these subjects returns to the question of another nomination for Mr. Coolidge.

In few other matters has the president so genuinely fulfilled his traditional role of silence. Even those who have gone to the White House to hand over the support of tempting blocs or delegates say they came away uncertain whether the offer would be accepted. Some of those closest to the president declare he has not made up his mind whether to stand for a term which would carry his service beyond the eight years which heretofore has represented the maximum tenure of a president. But in great numbers his followers have accepted the assumption that he will run, and the movement for his renomination already has shown definite outcroppings in many states.

Develops Reactions

The campaign to Governor Smith the Democratic nominee likewise has developed reactions that are almost nation-wide. Holding as much as possible of the great bloc of strength that made him so formidable a power in the Madison Square Garden convention three years ago, his supporters have widened their activities constantly, particularly in the south. The last of the southern leaders to discuss publicly his availability is Senator Glass of Virginia, who said that Smith's membership in the Roman Catholic church would not alone make him unacceptable to southern Democrats, but added that if the party undertook to follow the governor's anti-Volstead inclination, it would be undone. As this discussion goes on, William G. McAdoo, who as Smith's chief opponent at Madison Square Garden drew a great part of his strength from the south, remains in the background. If the McAdoo people again are seeking delegates they are doing it without the customary brass band. Few political developments in recent months have attracted so much attention in Washington as the prospect of a statement from Governor Smith dealing directly with the tenets of the church of which he is a member. Recently in an open letter published in the Atlantic Monthly Charles C. Marshall, a New York lawyer, quoted from the precepts of the church and asked the governor whether, in his opinion, these precepts would prevent a Catholic from performing the constitutional duties of the presidency. The reply was published two weeks hence.

May Outline Policy

There have been reports in Washington that Governor Smith might also take occasion soon to outline the policy he would pursue toward prohibition if he sat in the White House. Some political observers believe an effort will be made to induce him to make such a statement in reply to Senator Glass. Others, however, think he will do nothing just now to attract the prohibition spotlight away from the Republican troubles upon which it was centered by last night's debate in Boston between Senator Borah, a dry, and Nicholas Murray Butler, who wants a prohibition repeal plank in the 1928 Republican platform. This debate stirred up many echoes in Washington, but no one professed conviction. The wets still said prohibition should be an issue next year, and the dries said it should not.

Both sides would welcome more light on this subject, however, just as both of the opposing coalitions on the farm relief question would like to know more definitely what the folks back home are thinking about the McNary-Haugen bill, passed by congress with the support of Lowden and Dawes, and vetoed by Coolidge. Very soon President Coolidge's close friend, former Senator Butler, who is chairman of the Republican national committee, will make a trip across the McNary-Haugen country, and a little later the president himself plans to go west for his summer vacation. There is much speculation here whether these two developments may be expected to contribute in any way to Mr. Coolidge's decision regarding 1928. But he isn't saying.

NEW DRESSES ARE PRACTICAL AND COST LESS

PARIS, April 14.—Among the new styles are practical and inexpensive clothes of gray and beige, navy blue and black, relieved by touches of color which can be changed easily.

A beige tweed coat and skirt, a white washing blouse, long tie, links, hat of felt or plain straw, brown shoes and light woolen stockings, make an acceptable morning ensemble. Again, for luncheon and the afternoon a navy blue coat and skirt may be worn with a bright crepe de chine or navy blue cascade, a lingerie collar and cuffs, and a jeweled pendant or a string of Bohemian crystal beads. A bright or light straw hat will perhaps be trimmed with flowers, or flat ribbon ornaments, but nowhere should there be any clash of color.

Straw Hats Much Worn

For an afternoon party many materials are suitable, for instance, crepe de Chine, plain or figured, and a long plain unlined coat of light beige or gray, such as will go with more than one kind of dress. A plain crepe de Chine, a printed japonne, georgette, or checked taffeta will look right under a plain gray, beige, or black coat. A Bankkok straw hat may be worn with any dress.

For the evening, under a cloak of gold and silver lame lined with velvet and trimmed with light fur at the neck, a dress of any color may be worn. At simple dances and dinner parties, chiffon and georgette dresses are general, but for more ceremonious parties there are beaded frocks, broadened laces and moires, lace and satin.

At least one black dress will be needed by anyone who goes out much, and a black chiffon, georgette, or spotted net dress is a treasure; it can be brightened, if necessary, with a flower, or a ribbon choux, or jewels. A dress of black varnished lace is also useful and black varnished ribbon on georgette or tulle looks well as a trimming.

In dress the little things which have to be renewed cost most. Shoes, stockings, lingerie, gloves, bags and flowers all have to be kept in good order, but with care they can be made to last, and it will be economical to buy things of good quality. Otherwise expensive materials are an extravagance.

Really, good silk, satin, georgette, and chiffon retain their virtue however long they may be worn; not so those of a poorer kind, however carefully treated.

See Fur On Costs

Fashionable furs are not fragile, and so are often worth the money paid for them, but the drawback to them is that they may go out of fashion as suddenly as they came in. Spotted, short-haired skins, rough-haired fur like badger and opossum, rabbit ermine if well cured, may be used for trimming summer coats.

Imitations of the fragile furs, such as chinchilla, sable, gray squirrel, are not to be recommended. Pony skin, if well chosen, lasts many years. Buck skin rubs quickly. Calf skin, lizard and snake skin are passing fancies, and can be taken as trimmings only. A leather coat is as valuable a possession as a black dress, and is a becoming garment also.

A leather coat of good color, soft and well cut, warmly lined with Kashia or fur, is a resource to the woman of small means. But fur and leather need as much looking after as chiffon and lace; fur should be combed regularly and hung open, not folded, when damp, and leather should be dried and cleaned at intervals.

A tall thin man requires more food than a short fat one, even though both are the same weight, according to a Japanese doctor. He contends that the amount of food needed depends upon the area, not the weight, of the body.

Fur seals are among the greatest rovers in the world, animals marked in the arctic having been found in the antarctic. They always return to familiar beaches at breeding time.

The annual freight bill on lumber is about $300,000,000. The average haul is 700 miles per hundred feet.

WET AND DRY FIGHT IS SEEN AT SACRAMENTO

SACRAMENTO, April 14.—With the date of adjournment extended to April 29, the California legislature today turned its attention to a new wet and dry fight, over the proposal to make ownership of a still a felony.

The measure, is by Senator H. C. Jones, and was adopted in the upper house after a stiff skirmish. It is scheduled to have harder sledding in the assembly, however, opponents of the measure declare, judged by the recent wet and dry test on the Hornblower bill to tighten up the law on search of private homes.

Assemblyman Hornblower, who has held up his bill on motion to reconsider, declares he will demand a vote after the Jones still bill is passed upon.

Signature of the $194,000,000 biennial budget by Governor Young today will be the signal that will unloose the Bred gasoline tax and highways bills, together with some 120 claim and appropriation bills. Next to adoption of the tax revision measures, making the budget a law will be the biggest step thus far taken toward adjournment.

Action of great significance to farmers and irrigators of California was taken by the assembly, when it adopted the Crittenden amendment, which proposes to reverse the basic law of water rights in this state.

After an all day debate, the lower house voted to refer the proposition, a constitutional amendment, to the people for settlement.

The measure would set up a new doctrine of water rights in California, or state ownership and beneficial use. That is, a riparian owner is forbidden to claim more water from a stream than is necessary for the benefit of his land.

Under the present law, as explained in the now famous Herminghaus decision of the supreme court, a riparian owner is allowed the full flow of all flood waters of the stream flowing along his property.

Among the bills adopted by the senate in its late session yesterday were the measures placing manufacture and sale of Hebrew kosher meat under protection of the law, permitting formation of county police protection districts outside incorporated cities, creating the Orange county flood control district, and authorizing a legislative commission to investigate the California school for the deaf at Berkeley.

Politicians In England Answer Demand for Song

LONDON, April 14.—Members of the house of commons who can't sing are at a disadvantage.

Politicians can no longer get by many of their constituents on lengthy speeches on the coal situation and the land problem. Crowds which desert the cinema to hear a spellbinder demand entertainment.

While the voters do not actually level guns at the feet of the spellbinders and shout "Sing! Sing!" in the way oldtimers used to treat tenderfeet in Arizona, they do almost as bad.

After the speaker has had a little fling on political problems the crowd at provincial gatherings begins to clamor for a song. It used to be that politicians took their wives or daughters or paid entertainers with them to sing. But that doesn't go any more. The British like to hear politicians try to sing. They have learned this from the Welsh, whose politicians can all sing, and sing pretty well.

Even Lloyd George is not above breaking into song, and the Labor M. P.'s from Wales are many of them so good their oodles have been offered professional engagements in the music halls.

Crowds even specify the song they want their parliamentarians to sing. "The Froth Blowers anthem" being now the reigning favorite.

Candidates and house members of all parties are taking singing lessons in an effort to meet this extraordinary demand on the part of voters.

Sir Austen Chamberlain has not yet broken into song, but Sir Harry Brittain, Conservative member for Acton, often sings "John Peel" to the delight of his political gatherings.

British political gatherings are not the sober, reserved affairs that Britshers might be expected to stage. Men and women of all parties join in the heckling. But there is good humor behind the confusion.

PURPOSE OF CITY PLANNING COMMISSION IS EXPLAINED BY SECRETARY OF S. A. BOARD

By MRS. CLARA CUSHMAN
Secretary City Planning Commission

A few months ago, upon recommendation of the city planning commission, the city trustees contracted for the services of an expert planning consultant to make a survey and prepare a comprehensive city plan for Santa Ana.

The word "comprehensive," used here, has a very special implication. By a comprehensive plan is meant one which, when completed, will embrace all the diverse civic movements intended for the physical development of Santa Ana, each of which may individually be called a city plan. For instance, there is the playground plan, the park and recreational plan, the zoning plan, the traffic plan, the civic center plan, the tree planting plan, and so on.

A comprehensive plan, therefore, is really made up of a series of lesser plans, or special features. Now, the custom in the past has been to handle each of these various elements as a separate and distinct problem, although in fact they bear a definite relation to one another. Here is where the chief advantage of the comprehensive plan comes in. In drawing it up, relations are studied, discussed and threshed out, the technical knowledge and experience of the planning consultant combining with local experience and local advice to formulate a practical, all embracing general plan.

In such manner will factional or group interests and mistakes be most readily avoided, the interests of the entire community harmonized, and greatest expression be given to each interest as is compatible with the interests of all. Surely this could be achieved by no group undertaking, but must be worked out through a central civic machine.

Perhaps one civic group in the community may be particularly interested in the playground movement; another in establishing a civic center, or in beautification generally, such as tree planting; others in zoning, or perhaps in relieving traffic congestion. Each movement has its individual boosters, its special pleaders, and each movement probably is desirable, or may be vitally necessary. But each group, in order to gain its desire, must have the backing of other groups, and the project must be presented for the approval of the public systematically at the psychological time, or funds will not be forthcoming. Each group will tend to stand out for his pet improvement, to the disadvantage of the other proposed developments. Thus, through a lack of co-ordination and of a system whereby each project is handled in its proper order, the cause, however good, is often lost, and progress is retarded.

So the comprehensive plan will tend, through a general oversight and foresight, to avoid evils which have been so glaring; such evils for example, as the sacrifice of rows of magnificent trees to provide for a necessary street widening; or the destruction of costly pavement for the laying of sewer pipes. Each project will be mapped out in advance, after due consideration of its relation to all the other group projects; the park plan with relation to future traffic arteries; proposed industrial districts with relation to proper housing of workmen to be employed there; schools with relation to future railroad and other dangerous crossings; in short, every plan would be fitted into the whole scheme. The zoning plan, the civic center plan, the park and recreational plan, the planting plan, the housing plan, would each be a section of a harmonized whole, to be achieved in its turn, with order and economy, as time and available funds, and the approval of the community make development possible.

Thus, the city may always have something definite, just ahead, to work upon. Should a group plan fail, or be impractical this year, it may be feasible next year; and in the meantime other group plans will not be encroaching upon its rights. Or, if some far sighted improvement or change in the plan is deemed advisable, the comprehensive plan may readily be changed to conform to this new outlook, after it has thoroughly proved its advantages.

A comprehensive plan, therefore, means co-ordination and co-operation. It is the most practical way of getting civic projects done.

Framed pictures specially priced 75c to $1.75. Charles F. Mitchell, 213 E. 4th.

Half of Hillside Is Shattered By One Powder Blast

MARQUETTE, Mich., April 14.—Half a hillside has been blown away at the volunteer mine of the Palmer Mining company near here to move 150,000 tons of iron ore in a single operation.

Eight-hundred cases of powder and 43,700 pounds of dynamite were used in the blasting, the noise of which was heard for miles. The Lake Superior mining district never before had seen ore dynamiting on a scale so gigantic.

Preparations required weeks, yet it was only three minutes after the master fuse had been ignited that the high side of a hill 700 feet long and 300 feet wide was shattered. Louis Maki lit the three-minute fuse and raced 1500 feet to safety with a minute to spare.

Seventy-two holes were drilled to depths that ranged from 80 to 90 feet, and in some of them nearly a ton of explosives was placed.

Serbian Women Trim 'Child Bob' With Sheep Shears

BELGRADE, April 14.—Primitive mountain peasants who are several centuries ahead of Paris in the matter of bobbed hair, but many generations behind in other matters, have been found in southern Serbia by B. Atchinkovich, ethnographer.

The women use sheep shears to trim their hair which they wear in a fairly long "childish bob." The ethnographer traced the style back to antiquity, where the thread is lost. The women only know that it always has been worn that way.

hensive plan may readily be changed to conform to this new outlook, after it has thoroughly proved its advantages.

A comprehensive plan, therefore, means co-ordination and co-operation. It is the most practical way of getting civic projects done.

NEW COUNCIL TO MEET FOR PURPOSE OF DECIDING ON COMMITTEE CHAIRMANSHIPS

With commissioners to be handed out and appointive offices to be filled, the men elected to the city council Monday will meet in a conference at the city hall tomorrow evening for discussion of matters pertaining to appointments.

The conference is preliminary to the new board starting its official existence on Monday evening of next week, when the present council members will retire and the new members will be officially inducted into office.

F. L. Purinton and Stanley Goode were re-elected. W. G. Knox, J. L. McBride and W. J. Kelly are the new members.

Purinton is mayor and Goode holds the street commissionership. C. H. Chapman, retiring as representative of the third ward, was water and sewer commissioner and chairman of the joint outfall sewer council. Knox is the representative from the third ward. He was city engineer at the time the outfall was installed and is very familiar with details of the water and sewer systems.

E. B. Collier, first ward representative retiring, was fire commissioner. McBride, who succeeds him, formerly was superintendent of county roads.

George McPhee, retiring councilman from the fourth ward, was light and police commissioner. William Kelly is his successor. Whether men elected successors to the retiring members will fall heirs to the commissionerships held by their predecessors is one of the problems that probably will be settled at the conference tomorrow evening.

Appointive officers include the building, plumbing and electrical inspectors, city engineer and water superintendent.

It is not anticipated changes will be made in the present heads of departments, and so far as is known only one application has been made for appointment. George L. Bates, city engineer some 10 years ago, and now a resident of Orange, has intimated he would not be averse to accepting appointment as city engineer should the council desire a change in the head of this department. Jenkins is rendering service that is highly satisfactory to the present council. It was said.

Golden Bottle Is Trademark Of Old London Bank

LONDON, April 14.—American visitors to London, when passing down Fleet street, the home of English newspapers, often pause and wonder why a golden bottle is suspended over the door of No. 37.

It marks the last bank in London to stand out against amalgamation with more powerful rivals. The exact date of the bank's foundation is unknown. It is so old, this bank of the Messieurs Hoare, that books and other documents that would determine its age were destroyed in the great fire of London in 1666.

At that time numbering of houses had not developed—most people could not read—so the golden bottle was used as its trade sign. Pepps and Lady Fairfax were among its earliest clients.

Inside the bank at present an old-time atmosphere prevails. Quill pens are in everyday use and the top-hatted, frock-coated bank messengers still wear white ties. A member of the family of Hoare always resides in the bank, thus maintaining the custom of the olden days when city bankers and shopkeepers always lived over their business premises.

Owing to the high cost of coal, a scheme has been fostered for the distillation of peat, or, as it is commonly called in Ireland, turf, enormous quantities of which exist in the British isles. From it can be obtained paraffin and asphalt and other by-products.

CHAMBER ASKS BORAH TO MAKE SPEECH IN CITY

George Raymer, secretary of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, today forwarded to United States Senator William Borah a suggested itinerary from his home in Boise, Idaho, to Santa Ana, to address the annual meeting of the Chamber on same date in June.

Raymer announced this fact at a meeting this forenoon of the board of directors. In response to an invitation, to address the annual meeting here, Senator Borah advised the secretary that he would accept if the visit here could be worked into an itinerary already virtually developed.

Raymer suggests that the senator go to Salt Lake City from Boise by rail, and that he use the Western Air Express for the journey from the latter city to Santa Ana. In his letter he points out that approximately a day's time may be saved taking an airship. Whether Senator Borah will agree to an air trip is a point involved in consideration of the suggestion.

The date for the annual meeting of the Chamber will be made to suit the convenience of the senator, if he finally accepts the invitation and approves the transportation plans suggested by the secretary.

Plans were made for a group of the directors to attend a dinner meeting of the East Side Organization, composed of 1 rsons interested in the central manufacturing district, Los Angeles, on Thursday evening of next week. Those who promised to attend the meeting were Clyde Downing, Carl Mock, Harry Hanson, A. N. Zerman, J. A. Cranston, Horace Fine and Raymer. Closer contact with the men who have made the manufacturing district in Los Angeles a success is one of the purposes prompting the visit by the directors.

Approval was given the suggestion by the directors of the junior division that a trade excursion be run to San Diego the latter part of next summer. The third week in September was discussed as the approximate date for the excursion. Plans contemplate a trip to the southern city by boat from San Pedro, the tour starting on Friday evening and concluding late Sunday night. An attractive round-trip fare have been promised, according to reports made to the directors by Bruce Switzer, who has charge of the arrangements. A fare of $7.50 has been quoted for the round trip, the fare including three meals on the boat and lodging for two nights.

EXPLOSION OF TRASH BURNS TRAFFIC 'COP'

George Stinson, Orange county state traffic officer, was severely burned about the eyes and face at 9:30 a. m. today when an incinerator in his back yard on Bockman drive, exploded, while he was burning trash.

Jimmy Stinson, 2-year-old son of Stinson, who was standing near his father at the time, escaped injury, but much of his hair was signed from his head.

Stinson was taken to the office of a Santa Ana physician where his burns were given medical attention and although he is temporarily blind, physicians were of the opinion that the burns would not destroy his eyesight. His forehead and cheeks were badly burned.

According to Stinson, the incinerator contained gasoline or oil of some kind. The explosion came soon after he had lighted waste paper in the bottom of it and flames shot out for 15 feet all around the container, he said.

Roast Beef Found To Be Favorite Of Prince of Wales

LONDON, April 14.—Caviar, pate de foie gras, truffles, champagne and other delicacies which gourmets relish are a dead loss on the Prince of Wales. He prefers a plate of the cold roast beef of old England and a bit of Scotch and soda.

This was demonstrated during elaborate dinners which he attended during the British industrial fair. Endless courses prepared by the finest cooks in England were passed over by the Prince. He even failed to eat the clear turtle soup.

Hindu Organizes League to Worship Without Services

BOMBAY, April 14.—M. Sinareveluo Chetty, the Communist propagandist in Southern India, has started an anti-priesthood league, to permit every Hindu to worship in any temple he likes without the intervention of the priests. Parties are being organized to invade the temples and break cocoanuts, burn camphor and offer flowers and prayers without paying anything to the temple priests, who have been living on these tributes for thousands of years.

Packs of Wolves Invade Mountain Towns of Spain

MADRID, April 14.—Owing to the hard winter, packs of wolves, sometimes numbering 30 to 40, have invaded villages in the mountainous districts of North and Central Spain and caused considerable loss among the cattle. EASTER DRAMA WILL BE GIVEN FRIDAY EVENING

The pageant of the resurrection "Dawning" to be presented in the United Presbyterian church Friday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, is a vivid portrayal of the imaginations and soul-thoughts of those who were witnesses of these things. Lyman R. Bayard, the pageant writer, has woven into the story the various scripture passages bearing on this event in a wonderful harmony.

The characters representing the disciples, the women who came early to the tomb, the Roman centurion and the Roman soldiers, the children and the street scenes in the city of Jerusalem have been carefully selected and instructed by Miss Grace Smiley, director.

The following persons will represent various important characters in the pageant: Centurion, Elmer Thompson; Disciple, John Harold Fish; Disciple Peter, R. Carson Smith; Thomas, the Doubter, Wendell P. Read; Lane Man, Will S. Hatch; Nicodemus, R. Eugene McBurney; Joseph of Arimathea, Clarence Knowlton; Mary Magdalene, Natalie Phelps; Other Mary, Mrs. Elizabeth Hoy; Rhoda, Elizabeth Todd; T. Harry Warne will preside at the organ.

'OLD GRADS' TO GATHER AGAIN AROUND TABLE

Members of the Santa Ana High School Alumni association today were anticipating an event of Saturday, June 11, with keen delight, following announcement that the date had been selected for the annual dinner and banquet of the organization. The function will be held at the Ebell clubhouse.

The date was selected at a meeting of the executive committee held last night at the home of Mrs. J. M. Burlew and tentative plans were discussed. Men and women who graduated from the local school a quarter of a century ago will be honored guests. In other words, the honored guests will be member of the 1902 class. A committee will organize an entertainment program, in which dancing and cards will be included. Many happy reunions of men and women who were in school here together and who have not seen each other since graduation is one of the pleasing features anticipated by members.

The executive committee members present were W. K. Hilliard, chairman; Mrs. May Burlew, secretary; D. W. Tubbs, Miss Blanche McDowell, Lucien Filipeau, John Newcomer, Mrs. Arts Walton, Miss Ada McFadden and Miss Mary Jane Owens.

HAPPY

Mrs. Hannah Josepho

SHE WAS HAPPY LONG BEFORE RICHES CAME

NEW YORK, April 14.—Hannah Josepho's husband recently got a check for a million dollars. Henry Morgenthau, Gen. James G. Harbord and John T. Underwood gave it to him for his invention of the photomaton machine.

But the million dollar check means nothing to 22-year-old Hannah. Why? Well, you see, Hannah Josepho thinks money is not the only thing in the world. She already has that priceless possession—happiness. A bride of eight months, she is married to "the finest husband in the world."

Mrs. Josepho's reaction to a million dollars plumped down into her lap is a shrug of the shoulders. But upon mention that she is a bride she becomes voluble. "It is still a beautiful dream," she muses. "My life is so happy that every now and then I feel I must be reading a novel or seeing a wonderful movie. I pinch myself to make sure it really is Hannah."

"My father had known Anatol for two years," Hannah related. "Father often told me of the struggling Russian dreamer who slaved nights on inventions and worked days running a chain of picture galleries. Last June, father invited Anatol to a party at our house. Two nights later he proposed. A fortnight later we were married."

Finally Mrs. Josepho conceded that Anatol's money will do a lot of good. "But we have no plans made now for what we will do with it," she said. "What is money after all! Nothing—absolutely nothing, compared to the finest thing in life—happiness."

MONEY MISSING IN CRASH MAY BE S. A. MAN'S

Investigation into the disappearance of $8000 stolen in Findlay, O., and declared by the brother of the dead man to have been in belts about the waists of David W. Willis and Bernice Miller when they were killed in an automobile accident Sunday near Long Beach, became of increased interest to Santa Anans today when it was learned that C. F. Jackson, whose large department store it was which was looted, is residing here.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson are living at 520 East Chestnut avenue. He is president of the C. F. Jackson company of Findlay and has actively aided detectives to trace desperados who murdered Peter Grant, a nightwatchman, in the Jackson store January 31.

Jackson attended an inquest over the bodies of Willis and Miss Miller yesterday at which Edward Willis, Long Beach barber, a brother of the dead man, testified that David Willis had a money belt containing $3000 and that the woman had a similar belt with a large sum when they left his shop Sunday morning.

When Miss Miller's body was placed in an ambulance, it was virtually nude, spectators told police, although Willis's clothes had not been disturbed. Both money belts were missing. The sum of $784 in currency was found in one of the woman's stockings.

Further search for these amounts were being conducted by Long Beach police and detectives on the theory that ghouls had been active following the crash.

Jackson said today that fingerprints taken in his store after the murder tallied with those of Willis, who, with the Miller woman, had been bulletined by Findlay police on charges of participating in the robbery. Two Chicago thugs are believed to have actually "cracked" the safe, Jackson said.

ROLLER SKATING SWEEPS CHICAGO

CHICAGO, April 14—Comes now an inter-crossing traffic problem for Chicagoans and suburbanites who depend for locomotion on shoeleather. After successfully dodging through avenues of automobiles, they are finding themselves confronted with another form of locomotion, not equipped with four-wheel brakes.

Housewives, college students and school youngsters have succumbed to a roller skate fad.

The new craze is being laid to the ban on college students using automobiles. The housewives explain it is not entirely a fad with them, because they can save time and get exercise and pleasure in doing their shopping.

Dr. John W. Pollard, Evanston health commissioner, has endorsed roller skating as a health-building sport and for the benefit of the ladies, he suggests, great as a reducer.

VALUE INCREASE REVEALED IN DEAL

Service Station and Five Bungalows in Santa Ana Involved in Transaction

Transfer of ownership of the southwest corner of First street and Cypress avenue, at an exchange valuation of $95,000, was revealed here today by John O. King, of 1155 East Chapman street, Orange, whose wife, Mrs. Helene Walker King, was the owner.

In the transaction Mrs. King acquires Long Beach property valued at $200,000, the other party involved in the deal being E. A. Eastman, of Long Beach.

The exchange of properties was handled by Howard Williams, real estate broker in Los Angeles.

The local property has a frontage of 150 feet on First street and the same dimensions on Cypress avenue. It is the location of a service station and five bungalows. The consideration at which Eastman accepted the holdings establishes a new high price for property in the first block east of Main street. The property has changed hands a number of times within the past few years, and in each change in ownership increased valuations have been established.

Mrs. King acquired what is considered an excellent piece of property at Long Beach. It is located at the corner of Ocean boulevard and Third place, near the Pacific Coast club. It has a frontage of 110 feet on Ocean boulevard and 350 feet on Third place. It is improved with a four-apartment building and a private residence.

King said that it was not the intention of himself and wife to move from Orange and take up a permanent residence in the beach city, but that it was probable they would pass the greater portion of the summer there.

The building is to be of reinforced concrete. It will have a frontage of 116 feet on First street and 60 feet on Parton street.

CUTTLE URGES PRADO DAM IN NEWPORT TALK

That the growth of Southern California will ultimately stop unless steps are taken toward conservation of water, was the declaration of Francis Cuttle, well known water expert, yesterday. Cuttle addressed members of the Newport Beach Exchange club.

The speaker, who is president of the Tri-County Water Conservation committee, and who has made a study of water conditions in the section of Southern California centered about Orange county, was secured through the efforts of Stuart Cundiff, chairman of the program committee of the club.

Cuttle urged citizens of Newport Beach and vicinity to exert their influence in securing the Prado dam. He quoted figures showing the loss in dollars and cents resulting from destroyed water sheds, and gave an estimate of the good which would have resulted if the water could have been saved. He presented figures showing the number of acre feet of water which could be conserved each year by dams placed at various points.

The speaker declared that the matter of water conservation is the most vital thing before the people of Southern California today.

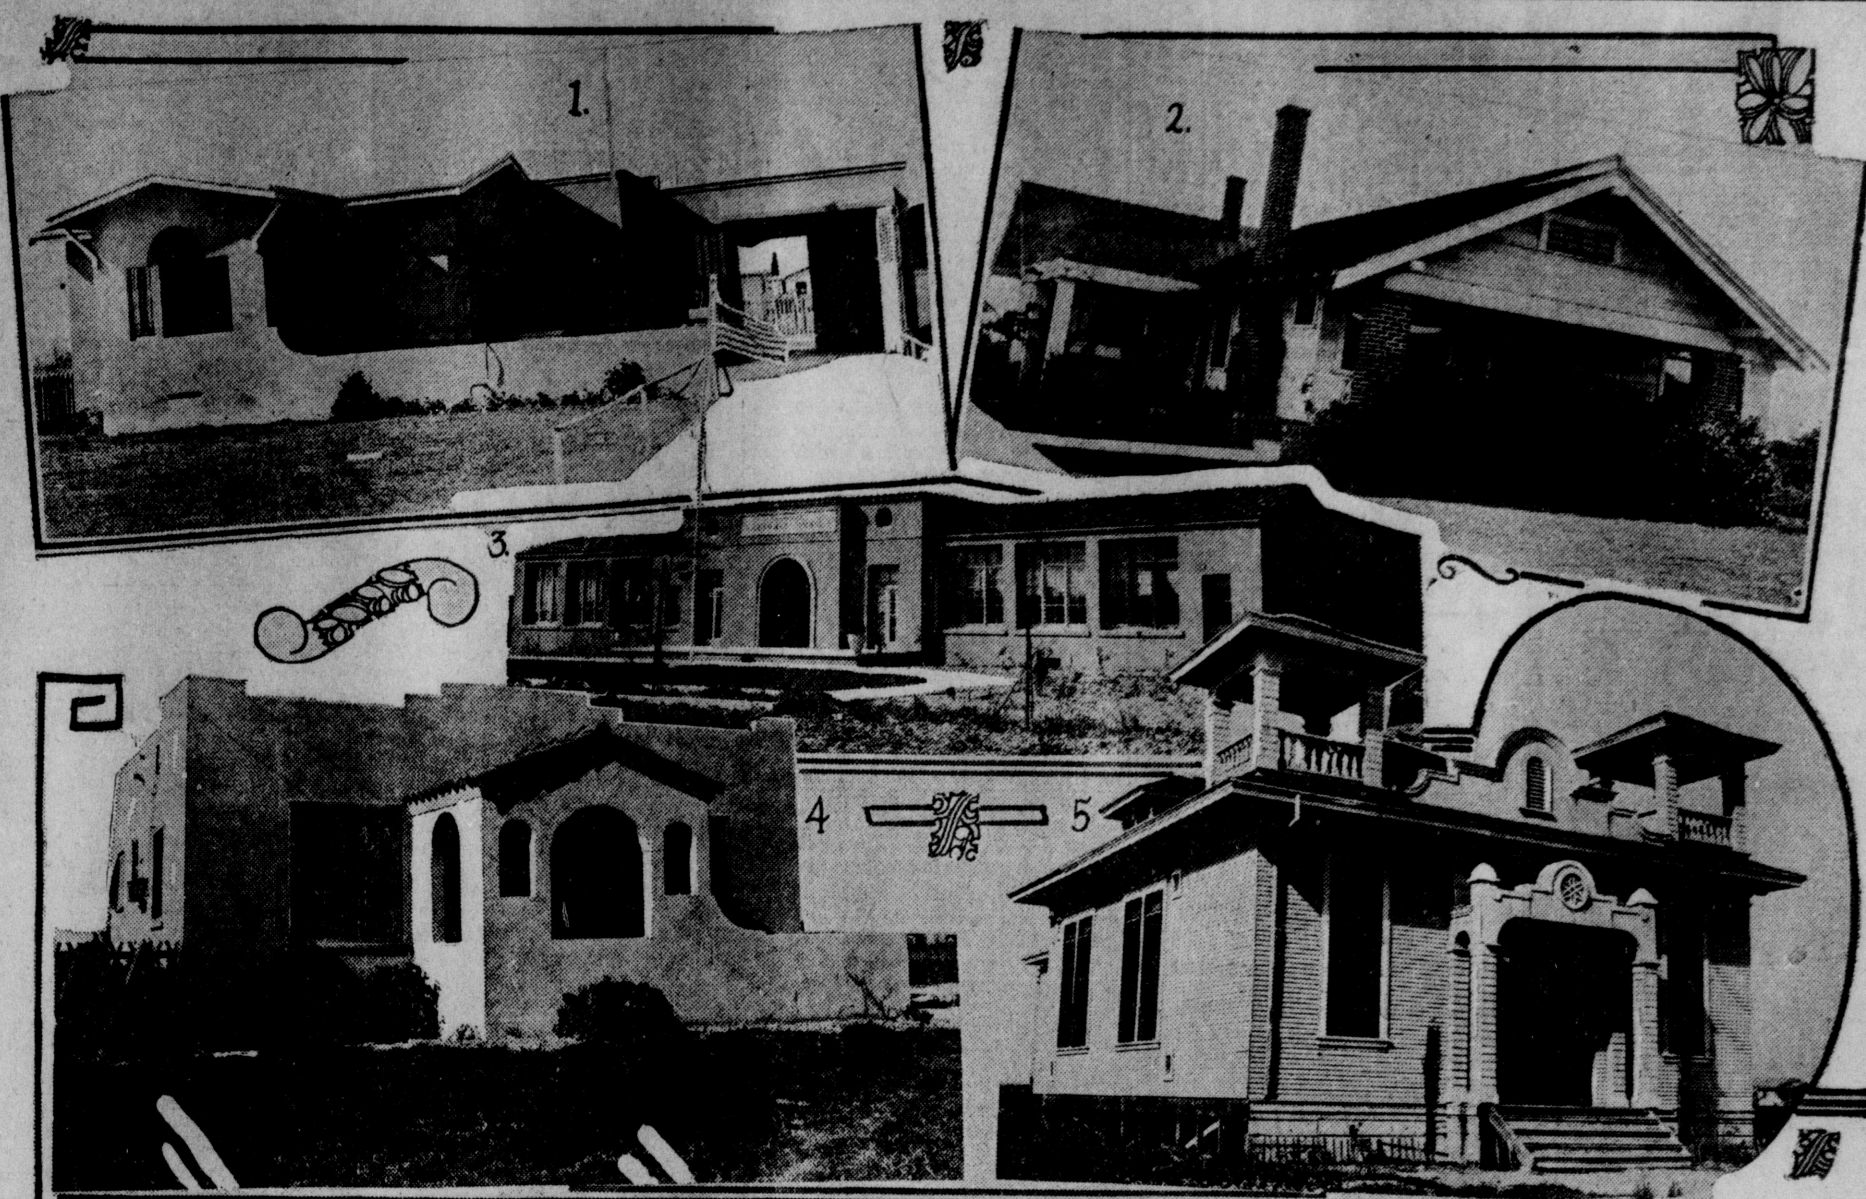

Dick Whitson, president of the Exchange club, was in charge of the meeting, which was held at the Newport Harbor Yacht club.

Dog Meat Peddler Thrives In Berlin

BERLIN, April 14.—New occupational "stunts" are continually being sprung in Berlin because of the many unemployed seeking remunerative activity.

The latest is the "peddler of dog meat"—not the flesh of the canine, but meat for the family dog. Such a peddler has been wheeling his cart through the streets of thickly populated Berlin sections, with a big sign proclaiming the character of his business and the merits of his goods for the purpose intended.

LAND BOUGHT FOR SMALL SUM WILL BRING THOUSANDS

Purchased 22 years ago for a few thousand dollars, the property of the late H. E. Woods, at Arch Beach, known as Woods Point, has been subdivided and the tract will bring a total of $150,000 when sold out. Mrs. Clemma E. Woods has made a contract with the Skidmore Brothers corporation to subdivide the four and a half acres and a map has been filed.

The sale of Woods Point is another of the romances of property in Laguna Beach which have been unfolded with the coming of good water, the highway, electricity and gas. H. E. Woods was the founder of three newspapers in Ohio, among them the Cleveland News. With a small fortune he turned his attention to mining and became one of the best known mining men in Colorado. He won several fortunes in the game but the greatest returns from any investment will be the purchase of the point of land at Arch Beach which bears his name.

Down on the beach below the Woods homestead there is an arch in the rock through which one may walk at low tide. It was from that arch that Arch Beach was named. So the property has historic value, too. At one time a wharf extended out from the rocks and boats landed there. That was during a former boom, when the entire coast line in this vicinity was under consideration by big resort interests. Lack of transportation facilities and water caused the bubble to burst. Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford are among those who have considered the property for a home-site. They thought it over quite a time but decided there was not enough land for their purpose.

Representing an investment of more than $100,000, the White House cafe at Coast boulevard and Park avenue, Laguna Beach, formerly owned by C. D. Bronner, was reopened on Tuesday of this week by R. A. Bird. Mr. Bird paid $85,000 for the property and equipment and then spent more than $18,000 in rebuilding portions of the place, making an extension, redecorating and reequipping the place. There now are two departments, a lunch room and the main dining room, which are connected by an archway. It is planned to keep the lunch room open all night long.

Work started this week on the two-story Spanish type house that C. D. Bronner has planned for the Virginia Park section of Temple Hills. Roy M. Ropp, who reconstructed the White House, has the contract for the Bronner place. Also in the same section Fred Wilkin is building a new home for R. D. Lippincott. Both homes will be attractively finished and landscaped.

Popular Concerts Attract In Berlin

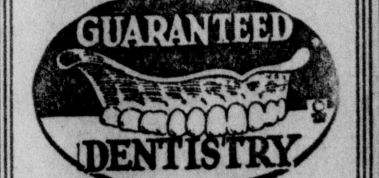

BERLIN, April 14.—Among the most popular musical functions in music loving Berlin this season are the low priced orchestral concerts given by the Philharmonic. They take place three times a week, on Sunday evening and two weekday evenings. The highest price the music lover can pay for a seat is the equivalent of 50 cents, and the great bulk of the admissions is at the rate of one mark, or about 25 cents.

While, because of competition, even these prices do not succeed in completely filling the great hall on all occasions, the attendance is uniformly large and the audiences appreciative. Music of a slightly lighter caliber than that of the big subscription concerts is usually programmed.

RANCH BECOMES HOME COMMUNITY

A program of steady growth, which has resulted in the construction of one or two homes each month, has marked the development of Santa Ana Gardens, residential community three miles southwest of Santa Ana. Several homes are in the process of being built at the present time. Constant growth has built up the Gardens in three years from the open farming ranch of J. M. Von Schiltz to a settlement of about 500 people.

The time is seen, in the next few years, when the population will have increased to 2000 and the Gardens will apply for annexation to Santa Ana. The north boundary of this district is but a quarter of a mile from the south boundary of Santa Ana, and the step could be easily effected, according to the property owners.

A water system which cost $14,000 supplies domestic water to the homes. The grammar school, known as the Diamond school, was erected at an expenditure of $25,000. The enrollment is approximately 150 students. A community church is the center of religious meetings of the district.

Clyde Wilson, W. D. Dahl and J. W. Wall have chicken and rabbit ranches. Among those who came into Santa Ana Gardens when it was first started are Jack Gold, John Buckner, J. W. Wall and R. H. Shields.

CITRUS MEN PREPARE FOR BIG VALENCIA ORANGE PACK

April 25 Set As Date for Opening of Majority of Plants in This District

NEW MACHINERY READY FOR USE

Pepper and Miller House In Olive Shipping Six Cars of Fruit Each Day

What is thought to be the greatest crop of valencias in the history of citrus culture in Orange county will soon be in process of being packed and shipped, according to the managers of the various packing plants in and near Orange.

Most plants have tentatively agreed upon April 25 as the opening date. One, the Pepper and Miller plant at Olive, already has started, and is packing an average of six cars daily.

All plants are preparing for capacity crops. New machinery has been installed in several and the existing machinery in all has been checked over preparatory to opening.

On April 18 the Orange Mutual Citrus association plant at the Santa Fe crossing on West Alameda avenue, Orange, will commence operations, according to plant officials. The mutual crop for 1927 is estimated at 450 cars of oranges and 75 cars of lemons.

Some time between April 20 and 25 the McPherson Heights plant, the Olive Hillside Groves plant, the Red Fox Orchards plant, the Olive Heights plant and the David Hewes plant will commence operations, the managers announce. McPherson Heights officials are anticipating a 450-car pack. Olive Hillside authorities are expecting to pack 160 cars. Red Fox officials believe the crop will exceed last year's pack of 330 cars.

Ben H. Cole, manager at the Olive Heights plant, estimates the crop for his plant at more than 500 cars. D. Eymann Huff, manager at the David Hewes house, is expecting his house to pack 135 cars.

Santiago Orange Growers' association officials and Villa Park Orchards association plant authorities are expecting bumper packs.

Markets Medals Of Royal House

BERLIN, April 14.—A new branch in the export trade of Germany has been discovered by an inventive blue blood, the former Duke of Coburg-Gotha, who is selling the so-called house order or decoration of the dual family to esauymen in Sweden.

Speculating on human vanity and the desire to strut about with decorations, he offers the decoration to anybody in Sweden who is willing to pay the price of 3500 Swedish crowns. The German government, which finds this proceeding embarrassing and calculated to detract from the country's dignity, is powerless in the matter, as there is no law on the statute books to stop this practice.

HIRAM JOHNSON WILL SPEAK IN ORANGE COUNTY

A letter received this morning by J. P. Baumgartner, member of the Republican State Central committee, from Fred Frank, executive secretary of that committee, announces that Senator Hiram W. Johnson will make a tour of Southern California, speaking on Boulder dam, commencing Thursday, April 28. On that day a big demonstration will be held in Los Angeles, by a committee appointed by the mayor, and will wind up with a big meeting at the Philharmonic auditorium, which will be broadcast and relayed throughout most of the western states.

Following this meeting Senator Johnson will continue on his tour, and Tuesday, May 3, has been designated as Orange county day. The program suggested for this county is that a noon luncheon be held in some part of the county, with a big meeting at Santa Ana to wind up the day.

The matter has been referred to the Republican County Central committee with the request that that committee, if the plan meets with its approval, take charge of all arrangements.

WEST COAST WALKER
J. Farrell MacDonald, in the cast of "Ankles Preferred," a picture in which Madge Bellamy is featured at the West Coast-Walker, is one of the best-known comedy characters in Hollywood.

He was born in Connecticut and his parents had fond hopes that he would become a minister. Instead he developed into a globe-trotter and eventually became one of the most popular actors in America. Some of MacDonald's best work was done in "The Iron Horse."

In "Ankles Preferred" he is one of an excellent cast. The list includes Lawrence Gray, Barry Norton, Allan Forrest, Marjorie Beebe, Joyce Compton and others.

The stage offering is several acts of selected vaudeville including "Songs, Dances and Surprises;" "The Mate brothers, two of the foremost physical culturists in the world; Kerns and Stone, two versatile comedians, and the Kennedys in their own dance creations."

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

Another well-worn and well-used adage of husbands and wives was shown up as false and dangerous last night at the Yost Broadway theater where "Stolen Pleasures" opened as the feature attraction.

The next time Mrs. Wife or Mr. Husband is advised that "sausage for the goose is sauce for the gander" let them reply that such reasoning is all applesauce. At least that's what Leah Baird, former screen star now turned author, proves in two interesting cases in this screen version of her story, "Stolen Pleasures."

At the same time she shows what a conniving old vixen Dame Circumstance is and proves that one—husbands and wives in particular—should never jump at conclusions about each other. Incidentally she also demonstrates that Jealousy, is still the same old green-eyed monster that has caused so much trouble, tragedy and unhappiness for centuries.

Again we can praise actors along with the story in this one. The pair of foolish wives are portrayed by Helene Chadwick and Dorothy Revier—and their equally foolish husbands by Harlan Tucker and Gayne Whitman.

RUTAN PICKED AS PRESIDENT OF BAR BOARD

Following the annual meeting of the Orange County Bar association, held at Ketter's cafe last evening, A. W. Rutan, of the law firm of Head, Rutan and Scovel, Santa Ana, is today president of the association.

Other officers of the association elected last evening are: Vice presidents, L. A. Evans, Anaheim; C. R. Allen, Fullerton; O. A. Jacobs, Santa Ana; secretary-treasurer, C. D. Swanner, Santa Ana.

In the absence of L. A. West, president for the past year, L. A. Evans presided. West was in Sacramento looking after the progress of the Orange county flood control bill.

Details concerning the provisions for the new self-governing bar bill, which has been signed by Governor Young, were explained by Attorney S. M. Reinhaus. The speaker stated that California is the third state to adopt the measure, others being Montana and Alabama. The American Bar association is proposing the measure in all of the states.

A discussion of the workings of the judicial council, created as a result of a constitutional amendment passed last November, was given by Attorney H. C. Head. The attorney said that he did not believe the council would bring any relief to congested courts. He pointed out that the state supreme court has not yet decided cases that have been before it for four or five years.

Judge R. T. Walters of Whittier lauded the work of the lawyers and judges of the so-called "cow counties" of the state. He said that in the larger cities the principal trouble is that courts do not really work. Instead of opening court at 10 a. m., they generally open at 10:15 and adjourn for noon at 11:30 or 11:45, and the afternoon session is likewise, as a rule, cut at both ends. He said the Orange county calendars are in better shape than most of the counties of the state.

Superior Judges J. L. Allen and H. G. Ames stated in addresses that with the co-operation of attorneys the three departments of this county will handle cases expeditiously. Cases are now being set no further away than in June. Judge Allen said that he was sure that attorneys, jurors and litigants would be better satisfied if court opened at 9 a. m. instead of 10 a. m., allowing an early adjournment in the afternoon after a full day's court session of five hours has been put in. Judge Ames stated that compromised cases should be reported immediately so that vacancies can be filled in by setting other cases.

Judge Ames stated that compromised cases should be reported immediately so that vacancies can be filled in by setting other cases.

Superior Judges J. L. Allen and H. G. Ames stated in addresses that with the co-operation of attorneys the three departments of this county will handle cases expeditiously. Cases are now being set no further away than in June. Judge Allen said that he was sure that attorneys, jurors and litigants would be better satisfied if court opened at 9 a. m. instead of 10 a. m., allowing an early adjournment in the afternoon after a full day's court session of five hours has been put in. Judge Ames stated that compromised cases should be reported immediately so that vacancies can be filled in by setting other cases.

UNIQUE SCHEME TO SWELL VOTE IS SUGGESTED

WASHINGTON, April 14—"I see by the papers," mused Senator J. Boonboom McWhorter, "that less than 50 per cent of our eligible voters went to the polls in the last election."

"Oh, the shame of it!" spoke up your correspondent, earnestly, "the people look to you in this hour. It is time for you to come forward. Someone must devise ways and means to bring the people to the neglected polls. Someone must show us how to increase pluralities and pile up bigger and better land-slides. Have you?"

"Say no more," broke in Senator McWhorter, leaping forth from his muse. "The people shall not look in vain."

Vote Early and Often

"I shall furnish the key and Congress, in its wisdom, shall unlock the door. Come November, 1928, and you shall see the polls besieged like a public peep-hole at a ladies' Turkish bath. Men, women and children will vote early and often and the ballots will be deposited in warehouses instead of boxes."

"You may say for me that, come December, when Congress, in its wisdom, again assembles, I shall formally propose a constitutional amendment to achieve this end."

"My project, which calls for a comparatively small appropriation, envisages an all-embracing campaign designed to decoy all classes of our citizenry to the booths."

"In each precinct we will appoint a paid committee to plan our various appeals. First the committee will spread the word that excavation is about to begin in a vacant lot next to the polling place and that there is a splendid chance to see a steam shovel in action. This will insure a goodly gathering at the outset."

"Then there will be announced on election day a treasure hunt. The clues will lead directly to the booths. This will attract the better classes—ahem, that is, the society people—and before they know it, they will be casting their votes."

Barrymore in Tights

"The committee will spread the word that John Barrymore will be present at the polling place, in tights, which will mean that all housewives and working girls will be on hand. To make sure of getting every woman in the precinct, including the blind, we will also announce that the first woman to arrive will be given a potted plant, to take home. The appropriation will provide for purchase of potted plants."

"The gambling element will be lured by a promise that fitting prizes will be awarded for lucky numbers on the ballots."

"To get the older men, we will hire artists to paint gilt letters on plate-glass windows. To get the younger men we will announce the opening of a new speakeasy on the second floor. Bootleggers, pickpockets and holdup men will come anyway, when they appreciate the size of the crowd."

"Perfect, isn't it?" Of course, it is admitted, a certain amount of deceit is involved. John Barrymore can't be everywhere. Still, doesn't the end justify the means if the people can be awakened to a new consciousness?

"And think of the government jobs there'll be on those committees!" concluded Senator J. Boonboom McWhorter.

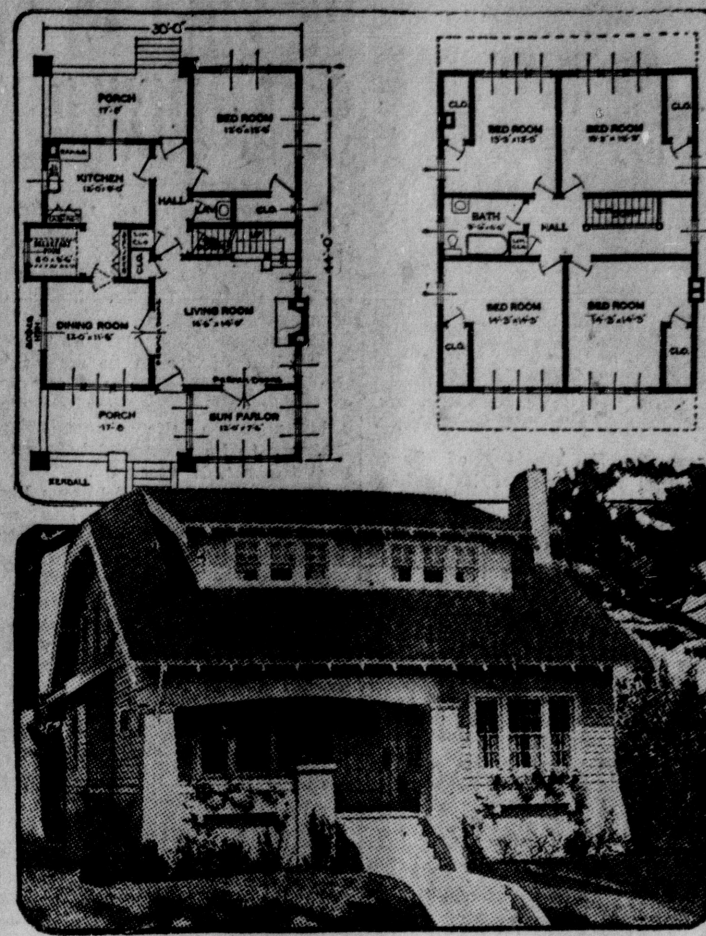

SUES FOR ALIMONY

BEAUTY EN ROUTE

PARIS, April 14.—For a beautiful European bride any young man in the northeast of the United States should go southwest. Miss France, Miss Luxembourg, Miss Spain and Miss Portugal are bound for the Galveston beauty show.

STURDY SEMI-BUNGALOW

The semi-bungalow is always popular, and with reason. It has that distinctive "cozy" appearance that makes a house so homelike, and yet it gives this impression without sacrificing needed space.

This plan manages to escape the bric-a-brac style so many semi-bungalows lapse into; it has solidity and a sort of sturdy strength in its appearance.

A roomy, well-shaded porch gives access to a living room which is featured by several novel arrangements. French doors open into a sun parlor and into the dining room, while an open stairway along one wall helps to keep the room from seeming small or cramped.

The dining room is adequate, and a pantry and breakfast nook combined connect it with a well-designed kitchen. Note that there is a first floor bedroom as well as a first floor lavatory in this design.

The real surprise comes upstairs, however. There are four full-sized bedrooms, each with good closet space, and a bath, as well as an airy, cheerful hallway. That a house of this size should contain five bedrooms seems unbelievable; and yet it does, and the rooms are all large and have cross ventilation. If you ever were inclined to a semi-bungalow type, you will like this house plan. It can be built on a 35-foot lot.

BOULDER DAM BILL DEFEAT IS LAID TO TRUST

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The senate filibuster that killed off the Swing-Johnson Boulder dam bill was inspired by a "power trust" spending millions annually to "poison the minds of the people," according to Senator George W. Norris, Nebraska, Republican.

He told the National Popular Government league, at a dinner in his honor, that the "trust" spent more than $200,000 to prevent the passage of the measure which was designed to harness the Colorado river for flood control, reclamation and power development.

"Senators were deluged with telegrams against the bill from representatives of the power trust," Norris said.

"One senator from a middle western state, who indicated he would vote for the bill, was called off in the last moments of the fight by a long distance telephone message."

The question of giant power, represented in part by the dam project, should be kept out of politics, Norris stated.

"If the Swing-Johnson bill is amended, at the behest of the power trust, its real friends will see that it never passes congress," Norris concluded.

NEW YORK, April 14.—Louis A. Logan, 23 years old, has a date two years hence to regain a bride, now 16, whom he is losing by annulment. Louis insists she has agreed to wed again on her eighteenth birthday and their true love, which began at first sight, will never cool.

CATCH WHALES TO GET GLANDS TO AID HUMANS

BERKELEY, April 14.—Believing that the secret of longevity may be hidden in the vitals of a certain species of whales, which, ignorant of the power in their pituitary glands, are cruising playfully about the waters around San Clemente island, scientists are conducting experiments which may result in solving the mysteries of life.

The whaler Lansing has been equipped for the work of capturing the cetaceans, robbing them of their pituitary glands and placing the glands in a specially constructed preserving barrel. The whales are to be turned loose after their glands have been cut out.

Professor Max Dunn, University of California, expects to commence the task soon of attempting to resolve the pure proteins contained in the glands into such simple forms that they can be studied as to the source of structure of living matter through the dividing of constituent elements. He will undertake to reproduce these elements synthetically with chemicals, and if he succeeds—well, the scientist promises to tell us all about how we and other animals happened.

SURGEON BACK AFTER STATE MEDICAL MEET

Returning from Sacramento where he was in attendance at the two-days' session of the sectional meeting of the American College of Surgeons, Dr. Harry E. Zaiser, superintendent of the Orange County hospital, brings an interesting account of the convention which, in addition to matters of special interest to surgeons, also dealt with hospital affairs, and sessions devoted to the betterment of hospital conditions.

The Senator hotel was headquarters for arriving surgeons, physicians and hospital heads, while lectures were held in the beautiful Memorial auditorium, recently completed at the cost of $1,000,000 as a memorial to the men of Sacramento county who lost their lives in the World War.

Noted surgeons from all over the United States, were featured on the lecture programs, while of special interest to Dr. Zaiser, were the clinics held in both the Sisters' and the Sacramento hospitals during mornings of the convention. Another feature especially enjoyed by the Santa Ana, was the joint dinner for doctors, trustees, hospital executives and nurses held at the Senator hotel, at which speakers were Dr. L. G. Bowers of Dayton, consulting surgeon of the Miami Valley hospital, and the Rev. Brewster Adams, Reno, Nevada.

Other prominent men who were featured on the daily convention programs, included Dr. T. M. McEachern of Chicago, associate director of the American College of Surgeons and director of hospital activities; Dr. Philip H. Kreuscher of Chicago, professor of orthopaedic surgery at Loyola University school of medicine; Dr. C. G. Sutherland of the roentgenological section of the Mayo Brothers' clinic in Rochester, and the Rev. C. B. Moulner, president of the Catholic Hospital association of America, William John Cooper, state superintendent of schools, and many others.

Both California and Nevada are included in the section, and the convention attracted physicians and surgeons from all sections of the two states. Mrs. Zaiser accompanied Dr. Zaiser on the trip, which was made by automobile. They were gone a week.

WINTERSBURG

WINTERSBURG, April 14.—Thirty-five new books, which had been requested for the Wintersburg branch county library, were brought out from Santa Ana by Miss Margaret Livingston, county librarian, one day this week. Miss Livingston took back with her 18 books, which had been contributed to the local library by J. Peavey, of Wintersburg, and these, when properly catalogued, will be returned. This contribution is greatly appreciated and anyone having books, which they desire to donate to the local branch, are welcome to do so, and their generosity will be appreciated.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McIntosh had as visitors in their home Sunday afternoon and evening, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Baldwin, of Hollywood, parents of Mrs. McIntosh; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cason, of Los Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bell, of Huntington Beach. Mr. and Mrs. Bell were making a farewell visit before starting Monday for the return trip to their home in eastern Canada from which they have been absent almost three years.

Harvey Raines has sold his ranch property at Escondido and within a few days will join Mrs. Raines here and the couple will reside in Mrs. Raines' house in the Blaylock tract, now occupied by her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bear. Mrs. Raines, who has been quite ill, has been here for some time.

Dr. and Mrs. U. G. Littell, of Santa Ana, visited Tuesday evening with Mrs. Littell's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Blaylock.

Mrs. David Russell went to Los Angeles Wednesday morning to remain over until Thursday. The Rev. J. Scott Willmarth, of Zelva, was a luncheon guest Tuesday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Slater. In the afternoon Mr. Willmarth visited other friends, and returned to Zelva in the evening with his daughter, Miss Alice Willmarth, who with a college friend from the College of the Pacific had spent the day with friends in Santa Ana.

A telegram was received Tuesday from Mrs. Russell Wallace, of Spokane, telling of the death of her husband from influenza. Mrs. Wallace is a sister of Mrs. Perle Elliott, of this place, and a niece of Mrs. George Gothard. It is expected that Mrs. Wallace and her daughter will come south at once as all of her people are in this state. No information as to the burial of Mr. Wallace was contained in the message.

School Children in Danger

Many parents feel that schools today push children too hard. Certainly their growing bodies need strong powers of resistance. Watch your child for depleted health and vitality, loss of flesh, failure to gain weight, fretfulness, lack of appetite for proper food, etc. These are warning signals. Get hold of him in time.

A short course of Cod Liver Treatment works wonders for most any run-down child. It's a great strength-giver and body-builder. And now instead of the old style fishy tasting oil, you can get at all drugists genuine McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, as easy to take as candy. Thirty days' use must benefit your child or the drugist is authorized to refund your money. Today is a good time to start.—Adv

LEADS IN SALES

Mrs. S. F. Wesley, of Santa Ana, had the honor of being high saleswoman of San Clemente property in the contest recently conducted by the Ole Hanson organization, and which covered the period from December 23, 1926, to March 31, 1927.

MANY FEATURE EXHIBITS FOR ORANGE SHOW

Fifteen feature exhibits have been announced so far for the seventh annual California Valencia Orange show to be held at Anaheim, May 19 to 28. These exhibits which will feature Valencia oranges in unique ways and occupy the main auditorium are now being planned according to George W. Reid, manager.

The exhibitors are: Santa Ana, Orange County, the Hannah Highway Bulb Garden, San Bernardino, Yorba Linda, Anaheim high school, Los Angeles, Pomona, Long Beach, Pasadena, Orange, Corona, Fullerton, Davis Perfection Bread company and Rideout's Experimental Gardens.

Some very unusual creations are expected to greet the eye when the show opens its doors Thursday, May 19th. The enchanted story-book motif of decoration adopted by the show this year will lend itself admirably to the creation of exhibits of distinction, according to Reid. All the nursery rhymes, fairy tales, legends and epics may be drawn upon for inspiration and for that reason directors of the show anticipate an ensemble of exhibits never rivaled for ingenuity.

The exhibits will have as a background, the golden carpet of Valencias in the racks, extending around the tent in which the same story-book motifs will be carried out.

German Postal Division Works At Many Tasks

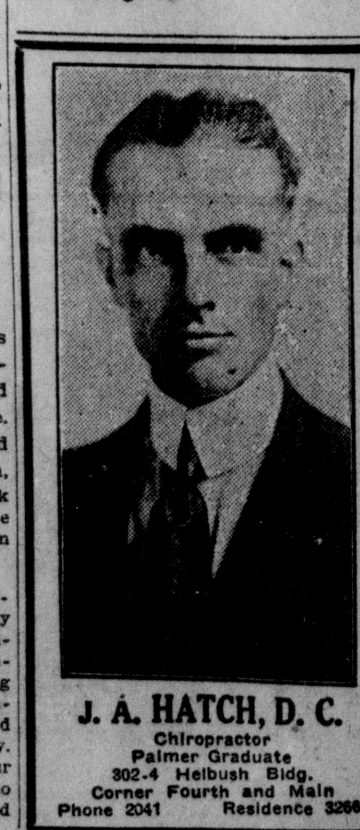

BERLIN, April 14.—The German postoffice department is a bill collector, banker, subscription agent for newspapers, magazines and books, and operator even of rubberneck sight-seeing busses, as well as carrier of mail.

As bill collector the department will for a small fee deliver a notice to pay debtor, collect the money and forward it to the creditor. The department also has a checking account system of nearly 1,000,000 subscribers. A debtor can fill out a blank, pay an amount due at any postoffice and the department will credit the sum to the account of the creditor.

The regular mail carriers also take subscriptions to any publication in the country. The sight-seeing and regular passenger line buses are operated in connection with the rural delivery service in regions where other forms of transportation are infrequent. More than 26,000,000 passengers were carried last year.

WHY FAT IS DISAPPEARING

Note in every circle how slenderness prevails. Note how many of your friends have reduced. One reason lies in Marmola Prescription Tablets. They combat the cause of excess fat, so results are brought without requiring abnormal exercise or diet. People have been using Marmola for 19 years, and users have told others. As a result the demand has grown to very large proportions. Let it do for you what it does for your friends—for people all about you. Reduce to your normal weight. All drugists supply Marmola at $1 a box. Each box contains a pamphlet explaining the results. Go try it. You will be delighted.

LEGION MEN TO BE GUESTS OF S. A. AUXILIARY

Past commanders of the Santa Ana Post No. 131, American Legion, will have charge of the regular meeting of the organization to be held at the Legion home on Birch street tonight.

The meeting will start at 8:30 p. m. with a dinner to be served by the American Legion auxiliary and members of the auxiliary will play a big part in the entertainment features to be presented before the post tonight, it was said.

"Happy" Wince, well known Legionnaire, of El Segundo, has announced his intention of being present at the meeting tomorrow night. Wince has put more "pep" into Legion meetings in California than probably any other man and he is coming to Santa Ana with a brand new line this time, according to Jules Markel, post commander.

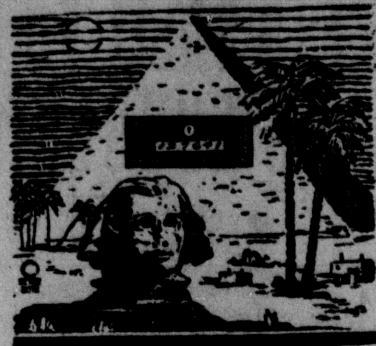

Several important business matters also are to be discussed at tonight's meeting.

A vital message to Owners of Stucco Homes

CORRECTING A WRONG IMPRESSION—Stucco is not—as many home owners believe—a permanent covering that requires no paint protection. It is an extremely porous "vener." And unpainted stucco, whether plain or finished in colored plaster, cannot withstand the constant attack of the elements!

CHEMICAL BREAKING-DOWN—Even the air you breathe joins in this attack! The atmosphere contains carbon dioxide which combines with moisture to form carbonic acid. This acid breaks down the stucco mass—causing it to lose its ability to hold together. Prove this by brushing a dry, unpainted stucco wall with a stiff broom—note the cloud of calcium dust that rises!

DAMAGE BY MOISTURE—In wet weather another enemy joins the forces of destruction—Moisture! Turn a hose on any unpainted stucco wall and note how it absorbs water—almost like a sponge! After rains, dampness may linger for weeks. This insidious foe attacks and rusts the underlying metal lath. Soon the stucco develops unsightly streaks and cracks—finally crumbling and falling away!

WHY A SPECIAL PAINT IS NEEDED—Because of these conditions, stucco needs painting even more than wood! But ordinary house paint is not sufficiently moisture-proof, and cannot withstand the alkaline reaction of lime, which is present in all stucco. This lime causes "spotting" and even destruction of the ordinary paint film. To resist these destructive forces, Fuller chemists developed—

CONCRETA

The Special PAINT that Protects and Beautifies STUCCO

What CONCRETA Does

Concreta not only resists alkali—it also excludes moisture and prevents chemical disintegration. Moreover, its mellow stone-like texture enhances the beauty of the natural surface—without imparting that undesirable "painted look." Concreta comes in white and twelve appropriate shades, ranging from cream to Indian red. With these tints, the most artistic, colorful effects can be produced.

Ask for Special Literature

Special booklets—illustrating many attractive homes which have been given lasting beauty and protection with Concreta—are yours for the asking. Learn more about this remarkable paint!

Equally attractive and durable are FULLER PORCH and STEPPING PAINT and PIONEER SHINGLE STAIN.

NEW HOME OF HIGHWAY BULB GARDENS

This modern building erected by C. R. Hannah and associates in the Highway Bulb Gardens will be thrown open to the public on Saturday of this week. The building and 15 acres of bulbs represents the growth of the concern in seven years here.

NEW HOME OF BULB GARDENS ON STATE HIGHWAY WILL BE OPENED SATURDAY, ANNOUNCED

The new home of the Highway Bulb Gardens, on the State highway at the first turn north of the county hospital, will be opened on Saturday.

C. R. Hannah, owner of the bulb gardens, has selected one of the most modern buildings of its kind and after Saturday will be able to take care of a greatly increased business. Hannah has been at his present location for more than a year and his business has increased to such proportions that a larger building was necessary.

James Elliott was the contractor and the new building was furnished by the Chandler Furniture company. Others who were instrumental in construction of the new home of the Hannah concern were Stearns, paints; Fred Martin, electrical contractor; Santa Ana Lumber company, lumber; Kelly Roofing company, composition roofing; Orange County Materials company, tile roofing; J. W. Sappington, plastering; Fred Lee, brick; Bright & Williams, cement; Dunbar, wiring; McFadden Dale Hardware company, hardware; Reliable Sheet Metal Work of Orange.

C. R. Hannah, president; L. P. Clame, treasurer; and Mrs. Hannah, secretary. The capital stock of the corporation is $150,000 with $70,000 issued and paid in. The Highway Bulb Gardens has 15 acres in bulbs at the present time and specializes in gladioli and daffodils. Hannah claims the Orange county daffodils are superior to those grown anywhere in the world. Twice each month Hannah broadcasts over KMTR, in Santa Ana.

According to Hannah, he started his business seven years ago on a shoestring. At the present time he has an investment of $65,000 and the business has been developed from the proceeds until when the concern was incorporated last fall the stock was appraised at $51,000 by an independent appraiser. This represents the business development in seven years. "We are exponents of the idea that Orange county is the logical location for the bulb growing industry in America," Hannah declared.

Kentucky claims America's fattest boy. Meredith Taylor weighs 125 pounds, wears size 42 overalls, a 17 shirt and a 71-2 cap. Yet he is only four years old, almost as broad as he is tall.

A surveyor in Arizona reports having seen 40 horses frozen to death, but standing erect in a snowdrift, just as they had huddled together during the storm.

Birds sometimes have a fever of 110 degrees Fahrenheit. Anything above 106 or 107 degrees is fatal to human beings.

In 3000 B. C., gold was not the most precious of metals. Gold objects were inlaid with silver, which was more valuable.

Acid Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"
Better than Soda

Hereafter, instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drug store. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.—Adv.

RICH MEN FIND HAVEN OF REST ON LITTLE ISLE

BRUNSWICK, Ga., April 14.—On a little flower-laden island eight miles off the coast of Georgia, 100 men—representing something like one-seventh of the country's wealth—have founded a haven of rest rarely visible to the public eye. Jekyll Island, however, long has held a romantic place in the history of Georgia, for it is near the coastland on which the English first settled here. Across the sound, on St. Simons island are the crumbling ruins of Frederica, ancient capital of the colony of Georgia.

Before becoming an exclusive club for George F. Baker, the Morgans, the Goulds, the Rockefellers, Dr. W. B. James, New York physician, Vincent Astor and others, Jekyll came down the years with comparatively few owners.

The English crown first granted the island to Clement Martin, whose heirs sold it to several Frenchmen, and it finally was acquired by Captain Poulain Du Bignon. A direct descendant, J. E. Du Bignon, handled the transfer of Jekyll to the millionaire club in 1886 and still resides in Brunswick.

Innumerable flowers—wild and cultured roses, japonicas, violets, poinsettias—ferns, palms, low hanging and moss-draped trees make it a place of beauty. Deep flash between shrubbery and trees. There are many other animals in the preserves and ducks are plentiful in season. Here a fisherman's luck always is good.

The island is about 10 miles long and three to four miles wide. On the Atlantic side are wide smooth beaches and huge sand dunes, while the western shore borders on St. Simons sound, a natural yacht basin.

Most of the members live in the clubhouse, on the western side, but there are numerous mansions and cottages. Special roadways and lanes have been constructed, each designed for some particular kind of traffic.

So there are bicycle paths, lanes for horse drawn vehicles—and now, roadways for automobiles, which for many years were barred. During the season between Christmas and the last of April, the nation's richest men play on the golf course.

No one is allowed on the island, except by invitation, but in rare instances during the summer months, when the members are present, tourist parties are allowed for brief visits. Newspaper men have been permitted to land only twice and when Baker recently became ill reports of his condition were obtained only with much difficulty.

Dickens' "Christmas Carol" met with such success that the first issue was sold out on the day of publication.

Airplanes must be tagged and numbered like automobiles, according to a department of commerce ruling.

The annual bill paid by taxicab riders in the United States is more than $400,000,000 according to recently announced statistics.

Dynamite was invented in 1867 by Nobel, a Swede. He also is the founder of the Nobel prize for peace.

Although it is famous as a city of skyscrapers, New York City has only about 20 buildings of 30 stories or more. The Woolworth tower, 792 feet, is the highest.

THE BIG DIFFERENCE

"Rube" Waddell is generally credited with being the greatest southpaw of all time. "Lefty" Grove of the Philadelphia Athletics is the nearest modern approach to the great "Rube."

Terrific speed was Waddell's greatest asset. He also had a mighty good curve. Grove has great speed and like Waddell it is his best bet. He just throws them by most of the batters.

On the same club as Grove, is another southpaw by the name of "Rube" Walberg. You don't hear much about Walberg, yet as a matter of fact he has as much stuff as Grove. Some American league batters insist his speed is even greater.

Grove has become famous because he cuts loose with everything he has, while Walberg has been denied fame, simply because he holds back his stuff.

Perhaps it can all be traced back to confidence and the lack of it. Grove believes in himself. Walberg doesn't. Once he does there will be no stopping him.

Basketball seems to thrive best in the hamlets. Recently 43 high schools competed at Chicago in a national tournament. The All-America selections for the event were Jim Campbell of Vienna, Ga., and Wesley Carpenter of Batesville, Ark., forwards. Alex Rogers of Florence, Miss., center. The guards, Tom Murphy, Batesville, Ark., and Ed Kawalski, Cicero, Ill. None of those towns occupy a very big spot on the map.

BASEBALL STRATEGY
Major league pilots differ widely in their opinion of the efficiency of certain bits of baseball strategy.

With Ty Cobb as manager of the Detroit club, the hit and run was a highly favored play. As a matter of fact, it was used almost to the exclusion of most other run getting methods.

When George Moriarty took charge of the Detroit club as the successor to Cobb, the hit and run play was tossed into the discard as far as being a main cog in the Tiger offense.

While Detroit is sure to use the hit and run considerable, it will not thrive as it did under the Cobb regime. With certain batters it is a great play; that is, men who can pick their spots and hit through them a majority of the time. Such batters, however, are the exception.

Making use of the club's speed in a varied manner will be the aim of George Moriarty rather than feature any one method of play.

An ideal schedule for training camp purposes has helped the Detroit Tigers round into condition without being too hard pressed. Two games with Pittsburgh was the only major league opposition encountered. The rest of the schedule was with strong minor league clubs able to test the strength of the Tigers without having them straining too hard to keep from being beaten.

WILL CHAMPS REPEAT?

As a rule, pennant winners in the major leagues are favored to repeat. The experts, however, do not lean any too strongly to the

EARLY GAMES INDICATE THAT A'S NEED MORE THAN COBB, COLLINS TO ANNEX PENNANT

By HENRY L. FARRELL

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, April 14.—One or two ball games, especially at the start of the season, do not make or break a championship team, nor furnish enough information for final judgment on the championship chances of a club.

It does seem apparent, however, that Ty Cobb and Eddie Collins alone will not make an American league pennant winner out of the Philadelphia Athletics and that Bill Terry and Al Tyson may turn the New York Giants into a National league champion.

The majority of the critics picked the Athletics as favorite in the American league because of Cobb and Collins.

Defense Seems Doubtful
But the opinion now seems to be that the defensive value of the two old stars will not be up to standard and that a weakness in defense hardly will be made up by the hitting and scoring ability of Cobb, Collins and Zach Wheat.

The Athletics also seem to be none too strong at first base in spite of the complimentary things that have been said about Brannan, a high priced minor leaguer.

Those who did not pick the Giants to win the National league pennant thought that an outfield weakness and unreliable first base play would keep McGraw's team out of the world series.

It would seem, however, that the outfield problem has been solved by Al Tyson and that Bill Terry is a good first baseman.

Tyson, Terry Fill Bill
Tyson came up to the Giants as a highly touted outfielder last year but he was in poor health during the season and made such a poor showing that he was hardly considered when McGraw was reconstructing his outfield.

Terry has been with the club three years but he never had a chance to work regularly as long as George Kelly was holding down first base, and that discouraged him. He always had been a hitter but his fielding was not perfect.

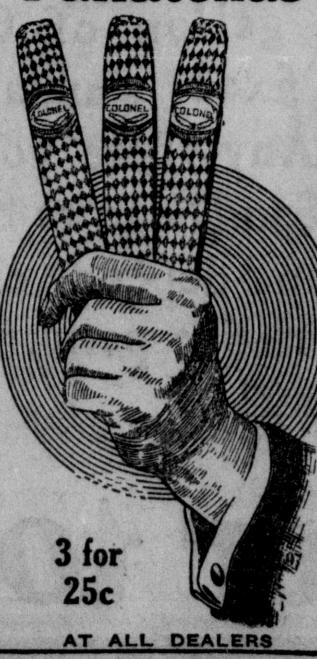

The confidence that a regular job on a pennant contender arouses in a young player has had an obvious effect upon Terry and it may make him the most valuable first baseman in the league.

While the Cardinals are liked better than the Yankees to go over for the second time, there are many who believe two new clubs will finish in front this year.

One of the experts gave the Yankees a chance last spring, yet they took down the American league flag. The team they couldn't see last year is practically the same this season.

The Cardinals will be without Rogers Hornsby. There is no getting away from the fact that Hornsby as manager got 100 per cent out of his players. Bob O'Farrell must do as well.

It looks like a tough race in both leagues with four or five clubs in both leagues having a chance.

COLONEL PanatellasCARDS. BEARS IN 'BIG MEET' NEXT SATURDAY

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, April 14.—Track teams of California and Stanford will clash in the Cardinal bowl Saturday afternoon in the thirty-fourth annual "Big Meet." Although the Cards are favored to win by at least a fair margin, there is no less interest in the event than in the last two years when the result was in doubt up to the time of the relay race.

California's 85 to 46 victory over Nebraska and Stanford's 96 to 35 win from the Southern Conference All-Stars, last Saturday, were not unexpected but individual performances in the two meets have set the dopest to guessing anew. As the result of certain upsets, at Berkeley and Stanford stadium, it can scarcely be said that there is a single "cinch" first place in the track events.

Two of California's idols were toppled over in the Nebraska meet and Glenn Johnson of the Cornhuskers accomplished both downfalls, defeating Les Schwobeda in the mile and Elmer Boyden in the half.

At Stanford, Alex McKinnon, a sophomore, came through to score an unexpected double win in these events. Schwobeda was beaten decisively in 4 minutes 27.3-10 seconds. McKinnon won in 4:27.8-10.

Boyden was beaten in 1:57.2-5 and McKinnon won in 1:58.2-5. As all of these performances were made on a wet track, it is evident that there will be several great battles and some fast times here.

Emerson Spencer, star Cardinal quarter miler, astounded the handful of spectators here last Saturday by running in 47.4-5, just 2-5 second slower than the world's record which has stood since 1916. In view of the unfavorable conditions under which Spencer ran, it would not be in the least surprising to see the Card star equal or beat the existing mark any time.

West Coast-Walker Issues Challenge

Fearful of neither man nor beast, the West Coast-Walker theater's indoor baseball team today issued a blanket challenge to meet any Santa Ana team, anywhere and at almost any time, except that the game must be played between 7:30 and 11:30 a. m.

The theater men are occupied in the afternoon and evenings and interested in their challenge should confer with McWilliams at the theater.

Yesterdays' hero was Jess Haines of the St. Louis Cardinals, who pitched a two-hit shutout game against the Cubs, contributed an equal number of hits toward his team's five runs and carried on for three innings after it was necessary to carry him from the field temporarily with a badly turned ankle.

Rain or wet grounds caused postponement of all other games scheduled yesterday.

The Chicago American league team was more fortunate and started a rally against the Cleveland Indians in the ninth which resulted in six runs and a 7 to 2 victory. The Cleveland team was

30 MOUND WINS IN YEAR DIFFICULT FEAT

Grover Cleveland Alexander Attained Magic Pitching Mark in Season of 1917 But No Deceiver Has Turned Trick Since

A pitcher able to win 20 ball games in the major leagues these days is considered an outstanding star.

Putting over 30 victories in one season is regarded as a seemingly impossible task because of the lively ball and short fences.

Pitchers no longer consider anything less than four runs a comfortable working margin. That being the case it is apparent why recording 30 victories is such a difficult task.

Just to emphasize the fact that it is an extraordinary performance to show 30 ball games in the won column that not since 1917 has any pitcher in either major league turned in 30 victories.

Alexander the Great, remarkable veteran, the hero of the 1926 world series, was the last pitcher to show 30 ball games in the won column at the close of the season. In 1917 he just did reach that mark.

SULLIVANS OUT OF POLY'S TEEF WITH WHITTIER

Two of Santa Ana high school's first team baseball players will be unable to take their places in the lineup when the second Coast Preparatory league clash with Whittier is played Saturday afternoon at the Post city.

The Sullivan brothers, Warren and Russell, have been ill and out of school and their places in practice games this week have been taken by substitutes. Coach Bill Foote said that he would probably have to do without their services in the Whittier game and that makes the prospect none too bright for the Poly chances to defeat the Quaker aggregation which held Pasadena, 5-4, in its conference debut.

Spencer probably will play shortstop in the absence of Warren Sullivan. Russell Sullivan's position at third has been assigned temporarily to Wilmonth Flanders.

Using their revised lineup, the high school squad turned trumps on the junior college yesterday afternoon, evening scores for the season by their 12 to 8 victory. The Poly players hit well generally, most of them being credited with a safe blow.

REVEAL DWARF'S LOVE
CAIRO, April 14.—A royal dwarf's love seems to have been revealed with a tomb in explorations at the pyramids of Giza. The tomb was built by Zenab, a little Croesus who bossed the dwarfs that looked after the royal wardrobe. He married Princess Sentites, a poor relation of the ruling members of the fourth dynasty.

BOYER SUES
LOS ANGELES, April 14.—Possibility of a new world's record for the 100-yard dash looms as the outstanding feature of the A. A. U. championships Saturday at the Los Angeles Coliseum, with a chance that the outdoor vaulting record will go by the boards.

While the absence of Charley Paddock, the "fastest human," from the sprints will in a measure dim the affair, Charley Borah, U. S. C. Hush Pinner, L. A. A. C. Murray Schultz, Caltech, and Frank Wykoff, Glendale high school, are a quartette that with favorable conditions may topple the existing mark of 9.5 seconds.

Bob Maxwell, of the L. A. A. C. Mercuries, is favored in the low hurdles, but will find worthy competition in Mort Kaser, U. S. C. and Jimmy Payne of the Trojan frosh. Any of the three may shatter Maxwell's coast record of 23.3 seconds in the event.

EAGLE ROCK, April 14.—Ervin Tanner, hurdler; Harold Webb, weight star, and Charles Ruth, sprinter, are the trio of Occidental college athletes who may compete in the Arizona athletic carnival at Phoenix, April 23.

De Hate Favored To Defeat Alger
LOS ANGELES, April 14.—Paul De Hate and Billy Alger meet in a bout of 10 rounds or less tonight at Hollywood stadium that ushers in the Pacific Coast welterweight elimination tournament.

De Hate's punch makes him a favorite over Alger, but the Arizona battler is a dangerous foe at any time and one who follows up his openings quickly once they develop.

Babe Ruth contributed two base hits toward the Yankees' 10 to 4 slaughter of the Philadelphia Americans. Gray, Willis, Pate and Elmhke attempted unsuccessfully to stand before the Yankee batsmen.

Koenig, Yankee shortstop, batted five times during the afternoon and reaped five hits.

Jess Barnes' backing was not what it should have been, and the Brooklyn Nationals fell to the Boston Braves, 4 to 2. Brooklyn was charged with errors by Barrett, Butler and Henline. Larry Benton pitched for the winners.

Yesterdays' hero was Jess Haines of the St. Louis Cardinals, who pitched a two-hit shutout game against the Cubs, contributed an equal number of hits toward his team's five runs and carried on for three innings after it was necessary to carry him from the field temporarily with a badly turned ankle.

CAPTAIN BEAR WILL RUN 440 HERE SATURDAY

Santa Ana Mentor In Move To Strengthen Team for Affair With San Diego

Maneuvering to strengthen weak sports in a team that is strong in spots and no so strong in others, Coach "Tex" Sullivan of the Santa Ana high school track and field mentor, intimated today that he would use Harvey Bear, his captain and star sprinter, in the 440 yard dash against San Diego high school at Poly field Saturday afternoon.

At the same time, it was tentatively decided to make other shifts by which, Oliver believes, Santa Ana will earn sorely needed digits in this, the last dual meet of the year.

Oliver, a former San Diego coach, to outscore the Hilltoppers as badly as he wanted to lick the San Diego football team last fall. Grid followers remember that the Poly eleven outplayed the South-erners throughout the game but was held to a tie and then lost our in Harry J. Moore's trick play-off.

Bear is a powerful runner, his best race being over an extended route. No runner in Southland prep ranks has taken his measure in the 220-yard dash this year and the Poly skipper figures to make almost as good a showing in the quarter mile because he has shown on numerous occasions that he can go the distance.

Oliver is making the change because he believes that Terry Stephenson and Jack Blakeney can take care of themselves in the 220 and bring Santa Ana some points whereas Airhardt, San Diego's crack quarter-miler, would be a cinch to finish ahead of Wylie Carlyle and Joe Warner, Santa Ana's improving but inexperienced pair in the one-lap grind. With Bear to contend with it is doubtful if Airhardt will be able to romp in as he pleases for Bear negotiated the lap, unopposed, in 53 seconds yesterday.

Entered in the 440, Bear will not take part in the 220, but will limit his activities to the 100, which he should win handily, and the first lap of the relay.

Carlyle and Warner probably will team up with Little Tommy Cone and give Poly a strong triumvirate of entries in the 880, which has been another weak spot on the local club all season.

INDIAN BRAVES PREPARED FOR FIRE CEREMONY

RIVERSIDE, April 14.—The "Great Spirit" hovered over the mountains of Riverside county today as preparations went forward for the staging of the "kill fire" dance, eerie ritual of the American Indian.

The dance, an ordeal performed but thrice in a century, will be executed tonight by 25 Indian braves, selected from the desert and coastal tribes for their undaunted zeal.

Representatives of 57 southwestern tribes will gather for the unique rites and to the accompaniment of throbming tom toms the weird ceremony will begin as night falls.

As the flames from willow fagots, deposited in the center of the ceremonial grounds, leap higher and higher, the braves will dash in and, with primitive incantations on their lips, dance until the fire is stifled.

The cauldroned soles of each dancer testifies to the preparation made for the rites that will not be repeated again for 33 years.

The night ceremony, following the fiesta starting at 10 a. m. and continuing until 11:30 p. m., will be open to the public, with "pale-faces" from all over the Southland interested spectators at the fantastic revival of primitive worship.

Stresemann Took Up Trust Battle When Young Man

BERLIN, April 14.—Foreign Minister Gustav Stresemann took his first big step toward national prominence when only 22 years old, by acting as a "trust buster." This is revealed by Baron Rochus von Rheinbaben in a foreword and character sketch written for a new two-volume collection of speeches and writings of Stresemann.

According to Rheinbaben, Stresemann, just out of college, became assistant to the executive director of the League of German Chocolate Manufacturers. He discovered that the sugar trust held complete sway over the industries using sugar chiefly by dictating sugar prices.

Stresemann found a simple solution: he persuaded the chocolate manufacturers to build a factory of their own. It worked like a charm; before even the framework of the building was erected, the power of the sugar trust was broken.

In his political career Stresemann has often used the device of defeating the other fellow at his own game.

HAVENS URGES USE OF LIGHT TO KILL MOTH PEST

Editor Register: It is gratifying to see men of C. C. Collins' calibre show so much interest in the plan to try out the lights for codling moth control, and many more of the best known growers will likely be heard from.

Ed. Barber uses one light for each four trees in the grove, or about eight to the acre when trees are 40 feet apart. Otto Guenther, north of Orange, and Mr. Potts on North Main street, Santa Ana, have also proved that this plan is O.K. Whatever results we have with the moth, there is one thing sure, it won't break anyone to try it out. One light in the rose garden, or dahlia plot, will keep the rose leaf beetle and fruit tree cerise from cutting the leaves off of them, for both of these insect pests are also attracted by the light.

The fruit tree cerise has just discovered Orange county within the last few years, but give them two nights on a young persimmon or apple tree, or rose bush, and you have no leaves left. I defy any expert to say that they cannot be trapped by Mr. Barber's light, for I have them on display, caught in his trap. I believe that is fairly good proof.

Experts are interested in this idea. I have a letter from Prof. Quayle asking me to let him know when we were giving it a trial this coming season as he would like to come down and investigate. Prof. Smith, a man ranked among the best in the state, says he has had some results with a large light and believes that with some scented bait, like vinegar or cider, it would be a great help. Mr. Barber had very poor success with a large light, but when he reduced the flame to a tiny blaze, he caught them by the scores.

Reports from an "expert" in Oregon says that the apple growers up there caught them in pans of sweet cider set about the apple trees. I have a clipping from the Santa Ana Register, telling of farmers in Colorado setting a light out, with a funnel and sack underneath and catching as high as 100 lbs. of assorted bugs in one night—220 varieties to be correct. I discounted that article 25 per cent, but even at that it would be one of the most valuable items that was ever printed.

Was there anything suggested about that being tried locally? Oh no, that was just another farmer's dream.

We have given the arsenate of lead a long test. It has done some good, but when an article is so unreliable that the factory itself will not guarantee it against danger of burning the trees, it will never be used to an extent that there will ever be any hope to control the moth by its use. Are the farmers not required to guarantee their product to come up to test before it is put on the market? Did not the apple industry receive a setback because England boycotted our apples two years ago on account of arsenate of lead poison?

A continual battle waged on the codling moth is bound to be a strain on the pocketbook.

Since last spraying season I take nothing for granted. Just because one or two say a thing is O.K., means nothing. Look into every phase of the case at bar.

Some say that Mr. Barber did not catch the codling moth. What do they say to his written statement—which I have at hand—that from four rows of trees when he had lights he found 14 pounds of wormy nuts in 35 sacks. Out of the 71 sacks that he picked from the rest of the grove, where he had no lights he found 147 pounds of wormy nuts. This is the record from the first two pickings, and every one knows that the first two pickings contain the largest amount of cull or wormy nuts. The most logical point in this plan as followed by Mr. Barber is that ever grower is able to tell just when to start and when to stop using his lights. He has one light close to his home that he keeps burning every night as soon as he thinks there are any moths about. As long as he finds only two or three next morning, he does not light up the grove, but if he finds more than that he does. He also keeps a thermometer and if it registers below 65 degrees the moth will not come out. He trapped more moth in July and August last year than he did in May and June. I am not offering this to stir up any long winded argument, nor because Ed. Barber and I have anything to sell, but when so much evidence can be collected from our citizens that have paid taxes here for years, it looks as if this thing should be given a trial, regardless of expert advice. Those that spray have my best wishes, but I am still standing pat.

OFFICIALS AT KIWANIS CLUB GET 'BOUQUETS'

W. J. Kelly, elected to the city council from the fourth ward, George Duntun, elected to the board of education, and E. L. Vegley, re-elected city clerk Monday, today were "long" on turnips, following the meeting of the Kiwanis club yesterday, when each was presented with a "bouquet" of turnips.

The presentation was made by Robert Speed, following remarks by O. A. Haley complimentary to the successful candidates and congratulatory to the club upon having in its membership three men who had been successful in the city election.

The spirit of levity preceded the program hour, and presentation of the "bouquets" was an incident of the pre-program period. Before assembling for the meeting, the Kiwanians attended Easter services at the First Christian church, in which the Rev. C. F. Sietter, pastor of the First Methodist church, and a member of the club, was speaker. The Rev. W. L. H. Benton, rector of the Church of the Messiah, and also a member of the club, participated in the church services.

Yesterday was the date for the monthly educational program, and Dr. H. G. Huffman, chairman of the committee, was in charge. O. Johnston, of the Business Institute, was accepted as a new member, and H. H. Evans, an official in Los Angeles of the Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings bank, was introduced as the speaker, his subject being "Relation Between

Service Clubs and the Community

Evans cited many ways in which the relationship exists and pointed out that with service clubs in a community co-operating in civic affairs, advancement of the community was certain.

Work service clubs is doing among boys everywhere was cited as a noble work, and the speaker stressed the opportunity of individual members of clubs rendering an invaluable service to individual boys by associating with them and giving them advice on matters in which the lads are interested. Correction of tendencies in boys who are taking the wrong path offered a big field to service club men, he intimated.

Evans urged loyalty to local business concerns by residents of the city, and emphasized the value of such loyalty.

"The merchants of Santa Ana are entitled to your business, even if prices are little higher than they be in another community," the speaker said. "Who pays taxes, who contributes to church funds, who contributes to improvements in your city—it is not the mail order house, the business man outside of your city, but the business man in your city."

Dishonest advertising by one store, he said reflected on all lines of business in the city.

Trombone solos by D. C. Cianfoni featured the musical part of the program. The musician was accompanied on the piano by Miss Dorothy Hurd.

Device Patented To Warn Walkers Of Auto's Speed

BERLIN, April 14.—A radiator cap light to warn pedestrians when an automobile is speeding has been patented by Samuel Sborowitz, noted German engineer. Sborowitz declares it is folly to have a red light on the rear of an automobile without a similar contrivance on the radiator cap. His device for meeting the situation consists of a dozen standard vari-colored electric lights arranged as a radiator ornament, a different light flashing for each increase of 10 miles in the speed of the car from 15 to 60 miles when a red light glows as a warning signal. Some have suggested that the red light ought to register the legal speed limit. So far the police have not taken action to make installations of the device obligatory on automobiles.

PIONEERS WILL HOLD PICNIC IN COUNTY PARK

Memories of early days of Orange county will be revived by pioneer citizens at a big "old-timer" gathering, to be held Saturday, May 7, in Orange County park, under the auspices of the department of citizenship of the fourth (Orange county) district, California Congress of Parents and Teachers, of which Mrs. Florence Summers, Atwood, is chairman.

The gathering will open at 1 o'clock with a basket picnic lunch, followed by brief addresses and story telling by pioneer citizens.

Mrs. Summers, in charge of arrangements, said that the affair is being arranged with a view to stimulating county-wide interest in the establishment of an historical museum for Orange county and the preservation of historic data and relics.

The event will be open to the general public and representation from all sections of the county is urged by P.-T. A. officials.

Elk Hill Oil Bids Are Disappointing

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Bids for oil from the Elk Hills field opened, at San Francisco this week, were described by Secretary of the Navy Wilbur as "very disappointing." He conferred mysteriously with government counsel in the co-called oil scandal cases and with Senators Hale, Walsh and Swanson on the bids. The bids called for private companies to take the oil out of the reserves, to make it into fuel oil and to deliver it to navy tanks at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

Originally every man carried his valuables in a bag tied to his waist. This offered an opportunity for thieves to cut the string and flee, so some seventeenth century genius thought of sewing the bag to the clothing, making a pocket.

LAGUNA BEACH PAIR WIN IN LEGAL BATTLE

A victory for the defense terminated the legal dispute between Albert Martinez and Mr. and Mrs. Norman D. Bishop of Laguna Beach, which has been decided by Superior judge E. J. Marks.

Martinez sued Mr. and Mrs. Bishop and the Home Mutual Building and Loan association, of Santa Ana, to foreclose a mechanic's lien of $1925.43 against the Bishop dwelling at Cliff drive and Barranca street, Laguna Beach. The lien was based upon a contract for labor and material amounting to $1098 and extras amounting to $829.42. The work had been done by J. H. Maag Jr. and Maag's claim had been assigned to Martinez.

Separate defense was offered by the Bishops and the building and loan association. The latter asked the court to adjudge a trust deed held by the building and loan association to be a superior claim upon the Bishop property and not subordinate to the mechanic's lien. The Bishops contested the claim for labor and material, alleging that no extras had been authorized and that it had been necessary to tear out all the work done by Maag and replace it, at an expense of $218.50. This sum should be offset against the plaintiff's claim, it was contended.

The court decided the case in favor of the defendants.

DYING PRISONER IS GIVEN PAROLE

SAN QUENTIN, Calif., April 14.—A. R. Moreford, former mayor of St. Joseph, Mich., and until yesterday a convict at San Quentin prison, is going home—to die.

Moreford was once a highly respected citizen of the Michigan town. In addition to being the city's chief executive, he was cashier of a large bank there. He came west and got into trouble. Convicted of burglary in San Diego, three years ago, Moreford was sentenced to seven years in prison. Recently he contracted a violent form of tuberculosis.

It became obvious he was about to die. Yesterday he was granted an immediate parole. Relatives in Michigan have sent traveling expenses by air mail. Upon arrival of the money he will be put aboard a train for the east from an ambulance.

'ETERNAL FLAPPER' AGAIN HAPPY WIFE

NEW YORK, April 14.—The "eternal flapper" is again a happily married wife.

Edna Wallace Hopper, of theatrical fame, told her friends yesterday that she might be called Mrs. Albert O. Brown.

For she returned to the man she married 14 years ago and then left before even starting on their honeymoon.

Brown is a theatrical agent for William A. Brady. The reconciliation was celebrated last night with dinner at the home of a friend, followed by attendance at a Broadway show and concluded by a supper at Paul Whitman's night club.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown will start on their belated honeymoon as soon as Mrs. Brown finishes her vaudeville contract. They plan to go to Europe.

SANTA ANA IS SELECTED BY MANILA WOMAN

A few days ago, Mrs. Helene Caswell, prominent Manila society woman, and her daughter, Miss Vera Caswell, touring the United States in search of a suitable place for their future home, visited Santa Ana at the suggestion of Newton W. Gilbert, former governor general of the Philippines, now practicing law in New York. On arriving here, they were shown the city and its surroundings by Guy Gilbert, a local insurance man, a brother of the former chief executive of the Philippine Islands.

As a result of this impromptu visit, Mrs. Caswell and her daughter, are today residents of Santa Ana. Desiring to acquaint themselves with local living conditions, the city's social life, and other attractions before purchasing a home, Mrs. Caswell and her daughter have taken an apartment at the Hudson court, 2035 North Broadway, where they expect to stay until further arrangements.

"Versatility" is the middle name of Mrs. Caswell. In addition to having taken a prominent part in club activities of the Philippine metropolis, she has built up large business interests in the islands, part of which has been under her own personal management. She owns two homes in the islands, a city home in Manila, and a summer residence in Baguio, the summer capital of the Philippines. Her business interests include a franchise to operate a customs bonded warehouse, a hotel, partnership in a large importing firm and other properties.

Because of these business interests, it was learned, it will be necessary for Mrs. Caswell to spend a portion of each year in Manila for several years to come. Mrs. Caswell has spent much of her time traveling, in the course of which she has visited the leading resort places in Europe. Though but a recent arrival, she is already a booster for Southern California, and enthused over Santa Ana, which, she declares, is the ideal residence city of the Golden State.

Spanish architecture, she said, fits into the scheme of the scenic beauty, the climate and the traditions of the country, she remarked.

"The romantic history of the conquistadors and the self-sacrificing labors of the mission fathers, when the west was under Spanish rule, is known throughout the civilized world. Time has gilded tradition until it shines again in beautiful structures of Spanish design—done in stucco, with the roofs, gridded windows, arcades along the streets with semi-Moorish arches here and there to add to the distinctive beauty of Southland architecture."

Speaking of Santa Ana with its garden setting and beautiful homes, she thought that the cultural development of schools, churches, music, art and recreation would do more for the advancement of the city than any other effort put forth.

AUXILIARY WOMEN TO HONOR LEADER

Santa Ana members of the American Legion auxiliary are planning to attend a luncheon to be given by the Los Angeles county council of the auxiliary at the Mayfair hotel, Los Angeles, on April 25, at which time Mrs. Adeline McAuley, national president of the women's organization will be present. Approximately 25 Santa Ana women will attend, it was said.

According to plans announced at the county council meeting at Garden Grove, each unit in the county will go to San Fernando and act as hostess at a card party for the disabled men. The food and prizes will be furnished by the auxiliary units, it was said.

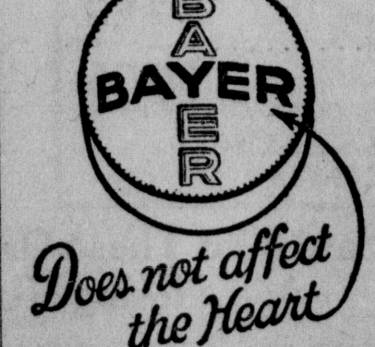

As an Easter gift, the county council voted to give $40 to the hospital post of the American Legion with an appropriate card from the county organization.

HAND GUIDES CLOCK

LONDON, April 14.—When the clock of the famous St. Paul's cathedral broke down recently, the hands were moved around by a man's finger in order that thousands of city clerks would not arrive late to work. Repairs took most of the day, and all that time a clockmaker with a watch before his eyes gradually moved the minute hand, second by second, until the mechanism was fixed.

in getting better returns from citrus fruit

We, the members of the California Fruit Growers Exchange, shippers of Sunkist, have facts and figures that prove to us that we do receive better returns. Let us show them to you—compare our records with yours.

IF YOU are growing citrus fruit there are several ways to figure your best possibilities of getting satisfactory net returns over almost any period of time.

Have you figured them to clear conclusions from the following three standpoints? (1), as an "outside shipper"; (2), as a cash seller; (3), as a member of the California Fruit Growers Exchange.

We make the claim that our method—that of the Exchange—brings better returns to us (the grower-members) over any period extending from three to five years, than any other can produce today.

You, no doubt, have records of the past. Would you like to see an interesting set of figures from the "Exchange" to set beside your records for a definite comparison?

11,000 of us—practically 75 per cent of all the citrus growers in California—have chosen this one method after an experience of over 30 years. Could so many of us be mistaken with the complete knowledge that we have?

Let us give you all the facts.

The citrus fruit to be consumed by 120,000,000 people must be distributed with the daily data of supply and demand in mind, and these data must be accurate, and furnished every day or markets will be over-supplied and prices fall to unprofitable levels. Only through the California Fruit Growers Exchange is it possible to collect, tabulate and circulate such complete information daily—only through co-operation of the majority of citrus growers which the Exchange represents.

You cannot buy such complete service. It isn't rendered anywhere outside of the Exchange. And it is vital to scientific selling, to true economy, to maximum net returns.

Such co-operation, with competitive production, is the means of but one end—better net returns to growers together with reasonable prices to consumers that will stimulate demand.

But co-operation has a side other than financial. It affords to men and women the satisfaction of being public spirited. One grower aids another. Each is part of a respected movement that helps towns and cities—in fact, the entire state itself—to progress along sound, social and economic lines.

So there is more than higher net returns to be derived from membership in the California Fruit Growers Exchange. Let us tell you more about it.

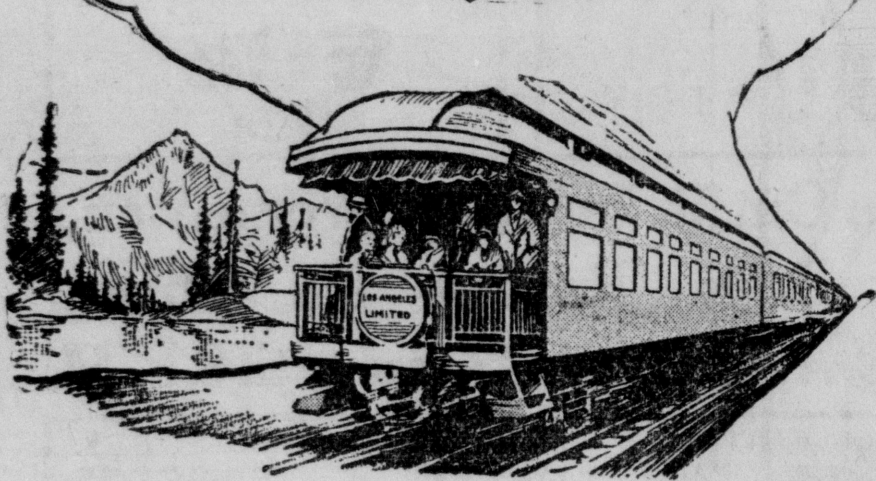

Ask your neighbors who belong to the Exchange how they value its service. Talk to the manager of the nearest Exchange association or District Exchange. Or write for further information to California Fruit Growers Exchange, Box 530, Station "C," Los Angeles.

Grapefruit

THE California Fruit Growers Exchange is a non-profit organization of 11,000 California citrus fruit growers, producing about 75% of the California citrus crop, operated by and for them on a co-operative basis. Its object is to develop the national and international market for California oranges, lemons and grapefruit by concerted effort, and to provide a marketing organization that will sell the fruits of its members most advantageously and at least expense. Receipts from sales, less only the actual costs of operation, are returned to the growers. Only California citrus growers are eligible to membership. Applications are received through all of the Exchange's 201 local packing associations, or at the central office in Los Angeles.

THE LIFE OF CHRIST The Crucifixion

With Simon of Cyrene carrying the cross, Jesus was taken to Calvary and there crucified between two thieves, while His mother and friends stood by. Jeering Him, the crowd said, "He saved others, let Him save himself if He be Christ." (Luke XXIII : 26-39).

The soldiers cast lots for His garments. Above Him was the inscription, "Jesus of Nazareth, King of the Jews." (John XIX : 19-24)

One of the crucified thieves repented of his sins, and Jesus promised him eternal life. (Luke XXIII : 40-43)

As the terrible suffering of Jesus on the cross was ended by death, darkness came over all the earth for three hours and a great earthquake rent the veil of the temple. (Luke XXIII : 44-46)

SYNOPSIS ARRANGED BY DR. WM. E. GILROY, D. D. SKETCHES BY KROESSEN

The joyous sparkle of a rare old wine

HAPPILY and quickly go the evening hours when your entertaining drink is "Canada Dry."

To every glass and to every occasion it brings something of the joyous sparkle of a rare old wine . . . and a certain proud distinction, too, that you will find in no other ginger ale.

Served alone, or with other beverages, it is a delightful treat at dinner, for your weekly bridge game, for the birthday party or the dance.

Here is Ida Bailey Allen's favorite recipe for punch—a most worthy addition to your cook book:

Continental Punch

Combine one quart of grape juice and a pint of orange juice with half-cup of sugar and a third-cup of lemon juice. Just before serving, add two quarts of crushed ice and four bottles of "Canada Dry." Mix. Garnish with eight sprigs of fresh mint. This recipe makes 36 to 40 glasses.

BROADWAY PLAYS ALL-WOOL AS COURTS REMOVE SHODDY

BY JAMES POWERS
(NEA Service Writer)

NEW YORK, April 14.—This is a sad season, theatrically, for sex and a gala one for authors with great moral lessons steaming in their bosoms, it begins to appear. Vulgarly is ushered by the nape of its grimy neck into the alley and plays with a purpose and comes to bat in a wave of righteous reaction.

"Sex," "Spread Eagle," and "The Ladder" are the three topics of theatergoers' talk this week. Behind each there is a compelling story.

The first finds its authors, backers, cast and all in the grip of the same legal disapproval that recently was visited on "The Virgin Man." It took a jury in general sessions court of New York a very short while to convict Mae West, Barry O'Neill, Anne Reeder, Constance Morganstern and others of the show of giving an obscene production, tending to corrupt the morals of youth.

The same night that a solemn-faced jury filed into the courtroom with its sonorous verdict of guilty in the "Sex" case—a verdict that caused Barry O'Neill, the big "he-man" of the cast, to break down and weep—Jed Harris was bringing out "Spread Eagle."

It is a fine, engrossing drama written by George S. Brooks and Walter B. Lister, two newspaper men. It exposes big business as a war lord setting fire to Mexico for a profit. It is down as a wise, acid, absorbing play on the list of things that must be seen.

Here is fresh mockery for the wheels within political wheels, and sardonic laughter at armies tricked into battle by business propaganda. Though sensational, the authors are knowing in their ridicule, their revelations. And Broadway likes it.

Next consider the somewhat amazing story of "The Ladder," now in its sixth month. "The Ladder" has run that long solely by grace of the well-filled purse of its "angel," Edgar B. Davis, Texas oil millionaire. The cost to Davis has been somewhere around $10,000 a week, or a total of $325,000 to date. If this estimate is accurate, "The Ladder" has set a new record for Broadway drama as a money loser. But it goes on—not only that, it goes on with freshened fervor just now on the part of its backers.

In connection with new efforts to make Broadway take notice of "The Ladder," it is announced anyone who sees the show and is dissatisfied can have his money back.

The play has a theme, the doctrine of reincarnation. It has a purpose—preaching that doctrine.

"I will continue backing 'The Ladder' indefinitely," Davis told me, "I am a rich man and I am happy, but there are poor people and rich people who are not happy. If I can show them another life, another world, and a brighter future, I shall feel well repaid."

Big advertisements spread across the dramatic pages of the New York newspapers now say that the play

"deals with the things that make life worth while, based upon the sensible, sane faith that there is something more in life than its superficial shell—that there is justice, hope, happiness and the heart's desires for all sometime, somewhere, in spite of man's antecedents or environments, regardless of race or creed."

Such is the story of "The Ladder." I asked Irene Purcell, who has one of the feminine roles, if the religious lesson that Davis seeks to instill had been impressed on the cast.

"I'm an actress, not a missionary," she responded. "What do I know about reincarnation? We play the roles in which we are cast. This is no sin. We respect Mr. Davis' ideals and we are working our hardest. If he chooses to spend his money this way rather than on a gold plated motor car and a kennel of poodle dogs, that is his business."

Broadway may continue to reject "The Ladder" as entertainment, but Davis, at least, is making Broadway sit up and think.

The author of the play wrote this synopsis: "Torn between the loves of two men, Margaret Newell falls asleep in the prologue with a 1927 background. In the dream she sees herself in three previous existences. First she lives a dramatic moment of her life in the rough and ready period of Norman England. Next, in London, she holds court as an actress in the dissolute reign of Charles II. Then the scene switches to the picturesque New York Bowery of 1840. Her dream over, she awakens with the solution of her problem made clear by visions of her other lives."

"Spread Eagle" is a story of plotting by an emperor of finance who wants the United States to intervene in Mexico to save his mining properties.

Failing to persuade the president to act, the financier sets up a Mexican revolution and succeeds in fomenting national hysteria. There are devastating scenes having to do with the pity and folly of a nation being trapped into war by a vast intrigue. Our average political exposure seems puny in comparison.

HEALTHY HAIR

You need not worry much if your hair comes out a little when you brush it. After all, you've got about 175,000 hairs in your head and most likely several thousand more than that, so if half a dozen show on the brush every day, it's no great loss. The hair is always shedding and always replacing itself. Your worry is when it doesn't replace itself and that you can tell by watching the scalp for thin spots, and by the general black-lustre appearance of the hair itself.

As a first remedy, try oil. You know that the night before the shampoo, the scalp should be rubbed with olive oil or crude oil and given a thorough massage, whether the hair is healthy or poorly. If unhealthy, never neglect this oil rub, but, after the shampoo, put a drop or so of oil on the palm of the hand, rub the clean hair brush over this and then brush and brush. The oil is massaged into the scalp this way, the small amount of it won't make the hair sticky, and the massage of the bristles will stimulate the natural oil glands, so the hair will be glossy. Firm, steady, thorough brushing may be the only treatment your hair needs. But it should always be a daily treatment, not a spasmodic one.

If it continues to fall out and if the scalp is abnormally oily or abnormally dry, dandruff accompanying either condition, then you must use a medicated soap, and an antiseptic pomade of some sort. I'd suggest a bichloride soap, and a pomade made of half an ounce of powdered flower of sulphur and enough olive oil or petrolatum to make a paste that is not too stiff. If you particularly dislike the smell of sulphur, use a mixture of zinc ointment and oil; it is almost as effective.

Miss A. H.—Your weight of 144 pounds is much more than usual for a girl of 16 years, even though your height is five feet, seven inches. However, a girl of your years should not try to reduce, as she is just attaining her growth, which means there is nothing serious about her proportions at this stage of her development.

A. L. M.—Use peroxide regularly and it will keep the hair on your legs bleached so it does not show through light silk stockings. A pumice soap can be used that will weaken the hair so it gets thinner and therefore less conspicuous. This is only, after all, a method somewhat like shaving but not with the bad effects of increasing the growth, which is really what shaving does. Give preference to the peroxide, and occasionally, use the pumice over the coarsest hairs.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

BY ARTHUR N. PACK

President, American Nature Ass'n. Although in 1752 Benjamin Franklin proved, by his famous kite experiment, that lightning is an electrical spark, it has only been within the past century that much scientific knowledge of this phenomenon has been acquired.

Up to the middle of the nineteenth century people believed that lightning looked like zig-zag streaks with sharp angles, and that this was its only form. When it became possible to photograph the lightning the pictures showed that it was more or less sinuous, and often had small branches.

Photography has also revealed the fact that many flashes are multiple, consisting of several successive charges in the same path. This explains the apparent flickering of some lightning.

The "heat lightning," so familiar in the summer, is that reflected from a thunderstorm so far away that it cannot be heard. The exact process of "sheet lightning" has not yet been definitely established. "Beaded lightning," resembling a chain of brilliant beads, and "rocket lightning," which shoots into the air like a rocket, are extremely rare.

"Ball lightning" is perhaps the most baffling of all; it occurs in the form of a small glowing ball moving either freely in the air or attached to some object. It is accompanied by a hissing sound and penetrates even through small cracks into a house. The unattached balls are harmless, but the others travel on dangerous chains and can inflict serious burns if they touch the human body.

Lightning is an enemy of mankind is being pursued by scientific research, attempting to prevent the fires and injury to telegraph and power lines caused by it. Lightning rods are proved effective, but unfortunately it is not practicable to equip forests with them.

ELEPHANT EXECUTED . . . Paris, April 14.—The most famous elephant in France, Gaspard, old timer of the Jardin des Plantes zoo, has been executed. Suddenly becoming unmanageable, all efforts of his keepers failed to calm him. In the interests of safety, he was killed by asphyxiation.

VILLAGE DESTROYED . . . NICE, France, April 14.—Fresh landslides have almost completely destroyed the village of Roquebilliere, here, which was mostly wiped out by a landslide several months ago. Now other slides are occurring and the few inhabitants left are moving to safety before their homes are buried.

ICELAND RAILROAD . . . COPENHAGEN, April 14.—Never having had a railroad, Iceland now is to lose that distinction by the construction of a 30-mile electric line from the capital, Reykjavik, to a fertile section in the south. Four years will be required in the construction, which will cost $2,000,000.

PEACE
Seekers of peace we hurry here Or proud possession of some trinket rare.
The great, the strong, the humble and the weak,
And never know where bides the thing we seek.

Some think it lies in praise the critics speak.

Fair Bobby Shaftoe felt real proud that he could show the Tinties crowd the way his little sailboat sailed across the deep blue sea. He'd pushed it out a ways, and then, "would float right back to shore again. Then Clowney sat down on the sand and said, "Say, just watch me."

He tossed his shoes up in the air, and shortly both his feet were bare. He scampered to the water's edge, and shouted, "Gee, it's cold." "Oh, go on in," wee Scouty cried. "It's warmer when you're once inside." So Clowney shouted, "Sure I will. I'll show you I am bold."

He waded in up to his knees and, my, at first, he thought he'd freeze. But then, when he got used to it, it wasn't bad at all. "Watch out," cried Coppy, "there are stones. Don't stumble now, and break your bones." And Clowney walked quite cautiously just so he wouldn't fall. The boat was then pushed out to him, and very soon he made it.

NEWS FROM ORANGE COUNTY TOWNS

WALNUT MEN GET $6500 AS LAST PAYMENT

ORANGE, April 14.—Checks aggregating $6500 were being distributed among 125 walnut growers in this district today, representing final payments on the 1926 crop. The short crop of last year served to boost prices of the nuts to such an extent that nearly double prices were received, the average per pound payment shows. Per pound, the walnuts brought 14 1-2 cents, which, with the exception of 1919, is the highest ever paid, it is said. Usual prices are seven and eight cents.

A contributing reason for the exceptionally good prices received, according to local packers, was the greater distribution of vacuum packed nuts.

A total of $70,000, including the present payment, has been received by local growers from their 1927 crop, according to officials of the Richland packing house.

Contractor Pays Fine for Failure To Secure License

NEWPORT BEACH, April 14.—Paul D. Roettinger, building contractor of Redlands, will not contract to build houses or other structures in this city in the future without first securing a permit to do so, according to local officers. Roettinger yesterday paid a $50 fine in City Recorder W. A. Leonard's court on a charge of failing to take out a city license. According to testimony introduced at the hearing, Roettinger was awarded the contract on a building in Newport Beach last year. He failed to take out a license to do the work. Recently, he came to Newport Beach to do some work and was placed under arrest.

Roettinger not only paid the $50 fine, but he also paid $50 in license fees, so that he might complete a building recently started. The amount included $25 for this year and $25 for the last year's license, which he had not paid.

Gull Drops Fish As L.B. Family Gift

LAGUNA BEACH, April 14.—The John F. McLaughlin family had a fish for breakfast yesterday which was not brought to their home by human means, yet the fish arrived in fresh condition.

The McLaughlins have made a habit of feeding the sea gulls here at 7 o'clock every morning. Yesterday, just as they had brought food from the house, a big gull, flying within a few feet of the ground, dropped a large fish. The fish weighed one and three-fourths pounds and was found to be fresh from the water.

"The skeptical will say that the bird had just captured the fish for its own breakfast and dropped it when it saw other food, but it looks to me like the gull was trying to repay us for the food we have been giving," McLaughlin commented.

ANAHEIM CHURCH TO GIVE CANTATAS

ANAHEIM, April 14.—Easter day will be celebrated at the First Christian church with the presentation of two Easter cantatas and a sacred concert, to be offered by the combined efforts of the church choir and orchestra under the direction of Howard L. Potter, according to announcement today by the Rev. C. C. Root, pastor of the church. The program will be offered at the regular service at 7:30 p. m., next Sunday, it is announced. "The Triumph of the Cross" which touches upon the experiences of Christ from Gethsemane to the cross, is the first of the two cantatas to be given and is from the pen of the Rev. Alexander Nathe. "The Prince of Life," by Marschal Loepke, the second cantata, has a resurrection theme.

Beach Auxiliary Will Aid Scouts

NEWPORT BEACH, April 14.—Local Legion auxiliary members will assist in several enterprises in the near future, it was announced at the regular meeting of the members Monday night.

Women of the auxiliary will arrange a booth at the Boy Scout jamboree at Anaheim and will give the proceeds to the Boy Scouts. Auxiliary members will stage an old clothes and "white elephant" drive for the benefit of the local Ebbl club. The Ebbl club is staging a rummage sale in the near future. Plans for a card party to be held early in May were made by the auxiliary members. Committees on the card party will be appointed later.

Mrs. Gladys Thompson, first vice president of the local auxiliary, was in charge of the meeting Monday night. Mrs. Thompson will be the acting president for the remainder of the year, as Mrs. A. E. Woolard, president, has moved to Pasadena.

L. A. Man Buys Avocado Land

LA HABRA, April 14.—S. B. Moe, an officer of the Hoffman Wholesale Hardware company, Los Angeles, has purchased nine acres in La Habra Heights near the Hacienda Country club. The land is unimproved and has a $10,000 building restriction. Mr. Moe, who is the brother-in-law of Mrs. V. M. Tressler, plans to terrace the land and set it to avocados.

The La Habra Realty company reports the following sales in the Heights, at prices that average $1800: R. A. Wheatley, six and a half acres; Lester G. Balwin, five acres; C. S. Price and Frank Bishop, six acres, and C. W. Cooksey, two and a half acres.

This land had been set to walnuts a few years ago but had no water rights until recently. The new owners will have the trees removed and planted to avocados. Clyde L. Brown is a new purchaser in the Sub-Tropic farms of a two and a half acre tract.

OBSERVANCE OF CLEAN-UP WEEK ANAHEIM PLAN

ANAHEIM, April 14.—In a formal proclamation issued today, Louis E. Miller, acting mayor, designates the week, beginning Monday, April 18, as Clean-Up week and he urges residents of Anaheim to bend every effort to dispose of the marks left by winter by a thorough house cleaning, both inside and out.

Cleanliness is an attribute that reflects the spirit of the community and of the people who dwell within its gates, Mayor Miller declared, adding that it is particularly appropriate at this time when Anaheim is preparing to welcome thousands of visitors to the California Valencia Orange show that the city shall be dressed in clean garments.

The city street cleaning department will haul away everything in the line of rubbish if it is gathered and placed where it can be seen and picked up, City Manager J. W. Price said, in announcing that the city itself would bend every effort to aid the people in their spring cleanup campaign.

Mayor Miller calls the attention of housekeepers to the need of clothing and articles of household furniture in many unfortunate Anaheim families and he urges all having any such articles to gather them in bundles and turn them over to the associated charities organization of which Mrs. J. W. Price is the custodian. Nothing that is serviceable should be allowed to go to waste for there is need for all things that may have any value, said the mayor.

SEAL BEACH WELL INCREASES FLOW

SEAL BEACH, April 14.—The Marland Oil company, which discovered the Seal Beach field, yesterday recomplected its Bixby No. 10 well, and got double the production that it obtained when the well first came in, according to field reports. The Bixby No. 10 offsets the Associated Oil company's Bryant lease, and is near the top of the structure. Originally it was completed at about 4350 feet for an output of about 1000 barrels a day. It was then killed and deepened to 4490 feet, where it was again brought in for 2000 barrels a day yesterday.

The Marland Oil company and the Associated Oil company are the only operators in Seal Beach to get really prolific production from the Bixby zone. The Standard Oil company has two or three wells on its San Gabriel lease in the Bixby zone, but they are not satisfactory producers, and in the townsite district in the northwest end of the field the Bixby zone apparently is missing altogether, the lower Selover zone being the only sand yet found.

At the next meeting oastel lunches will be auctioned off.

The Reason Why—'Grozit' Pulverized Sheep Manure Is So Satisfactory on Lawns

In the building up of a new lawn, one of the most difficult problems is the elimination of the weeds. Here in Orange County the soil is simply full of weed seed. They can practically all be killed through germination before the clover and blue grass is seeded. However, if regular barnyard fertilizer is applied on the new lawn, all the preparatory work is useless for the result will be a wonderful crop of the worst weeds you can possibly get—Burr Clover and Bermuda. In building a new lawn there is always enough work without adding a lot of weed seeds.

Buy good seed—the best—and then use "GROZIT" pulverized sheep manure—for it is absolutely free from weed seeds. This is the reason why "GROZIT" is so popular as a lawn fertilizer. It is approximately four times stronger in Nitrogen than is barnyard manure. It is therefore just as economical—and a whole lot better. Order a sack today. Use it on your lawn or on your garden or on your flowers. Every sack is tagged with the analysis. All

FRESHENING OLD DRAMA

Archibald Flower, an Englishman who has been six times mayor of Stratford-on-Avon and is now head of the Shakespeare Memorial theater in the bard's native city, presumably knows something about Shakespeare and Shakespeare's plays. Here is what he is telling Americans:

"People seem to think that Shakespeare is high-brow. Why, there are more laughs in the 'Merry Wives of Windsor' than in any of your modern comic shows.

"Shakespeare is still fresh and up-to-date and full of fun. But his plays suffer from being played by a star and a cast of also-rans. We want people to leave the theater talking about Shakespeare, not about so-and-so, or the scenery, or the costumes."

The play was the thing in Shakespeare's time, and should be now. The Stratford company, which is artistic rather than commercial in its purpose, is to be brought to America next winter, presenting the old classic plays in a fresh and natural way. That should result in renewed popularity for the works of a dramatist who in his own generation was considered the opposite of a "highbrow," and who probably wrote more good "laugh lines" than any other man who ever lived.

NO COLLAR BUTTON

What to do when a man loses his collar button? The age-old problem has been solved in a new way. A student in the university of Edmonton, Canada, dropped his collar button when he was dressing, and couldn't find it, and made the best of a bad situation by going to his classes without a collar.

That was a natural solution of the problem. No collar button, no collar! The college authorities, who are sticklers for propriety, thought otherwise and rebuked him. But several other students, who considered his behavior no less than inspired, followed his example. They were fined for it, and thereupon drew up a petition and had it signed by over 100 students, declaring that they were tired of the bondage of collars, and wanted to do without them, but buttons or no buttons. At last accounts, the movement was still spreading.

Thus we may see what great results follow sometimes from small causes. Soon all college students may be going collarless. And then all other young men may do likewise. And then everybody else. And thus the world will be freed from this form of bondage, until some enterprising student of a future generation is original and daring enough to start wearing a collar again.

UNCLIPPED COUPONS

A whole lot of people in this prosperous land bought Liberty bonds during the war, put them away in safe places and apparently proceeded to forget them and the nice little coupons which may be clipped twice a year and turned into ready cash.

The treasury department reports that tens of millions invested in these war bonds are untouched. None of their interest coupons have ever been cashed. This idle sum amounts to $35,000,000. If it were reinvested at only 3 1/2 per cent interest, it would net more than $1,000,000 a year.

There are other government securities which matured years ago but which are ignored by their owners. They are worth more than $40,000,000.

Americans may be as money-mad as some of their critics assert, but they are also amazingly simple or careless in some of their financial actions. Quite a number of things could be purchased with those neglected coupons—even the smallest of them would pay for a couple of movies or a good show, and the larger ones or the sum of a number of smaller ones would pay for more important things.

BURNING UNBUILT HOUSES

Officials of the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters say that forest fires in that state cost the people enough money to construct a modest but modern home every day. Last year's loss from forest fires was the largest in the state since 1913, and marked a steady advance from the loss recorded during that year. In addition to the actual timber destroyed there is the large expense entailed in fighting fires. The total loss itself includes other values difficult to estimate.

Every state that has many trees has its forest fire menace. The menace increases as the tourist season and dry months come on.

Fires caused by lightning or flying sparks from railroad trains are hard to prevent. But they are few compared with the fires started by human carelessness. These should be preventable. If every person who enters a forest anywhere in the country during the next nine months would play fair and be thankful and careful the fire hazard would be amazingly reduced.

DON'T BE SUDDEN

"There is one bit of advice," says a big automobile man, "which if generally applied would prevent most of the automobile accidents:

"Don't do anything suddenly."

"Apply that to starting, stopping, backing, changing direction, turning, crossing railroads, entering street intersections, etc., and nearly all the causes of accident are eliminated."

This is sound, worth thinking over and taking to heart. It is usually the man who does something quickly, different from what he was doing the instant before, which causes a mix-up or accident.

It is not an universal rule, however, as the giver realizes. For there are occasions when a person has to act suddenly in order to meet a sudden emergency caused by his own oversight or someone else's carelessness.

Perhaps the rule could be amended thus:

"Be careful about suddenly changing your speed or direction."

WISDOM TEETH DEBATED

Are wisdom teeth necessary or superfluous? This vital question is agitating two organizations in England, the Hearts of Oak Benefit Society and the Dental Benefit Joint Committee.

The former is obliged by its benefit arrangement to take care of its members' teeth. It refuses to repair wisdom teeth, maintaining that they are as useless as the vermiform appendix, being rendered obsolete by the shrinkage of the jaw which results from easier eating than the race was formerly accustomed to. If a wisdom tooth aches or decays, say the Hearts of Oak officers, have it pulled and be done with it.

Not so, reply the dentists, who have conscientious scruples in the matter. The wisdom tooth, like the other teeth, they say, is where it is for a beneficent purpose. So it should be kept and cared for, even if it seems to be useless for mastication.

Federal Interests in State

Pasadena Star-News

Because of the vast mountain area in California, and because of the policy of Federal control of public lands, this state ranks at the head of American units in the matter of expenditures by the National Government, and also in the matter of receipts from these sources.

California received during the last fiscal year more than $112,000,000 from the central treasury, the items including appropriations for public works, defense, education, health and recreation. California paid into the same treasury from activities benefited by these expenditures, $37,600,000.

It was under the administration of President McKinley that the forest reserve system in California was created. Millions of acres of wild lands thus came under the jurisdiction of the forest service, the ranger forces were organized, and policies for the leasing of these lands for grazing, for recreational purposes and for other uses came into being. Definite regulations were applied to homesteading, and other rules were promulgated which for a few years occasioned some criticism; but there has never been a serious regret that Uncle Sam was asked to accept this responsibility. The national park area in this state also has been greatly extended during the past quarter of a century, with the same good result.

There are twenty so-called public states with a total area of about sixty per cent of that of the continental United States, while having only about one-fifth of the population of the country. That 37.82 per cent of the area embraced therein consists of public land, national forests, national parks and Indian reservations, all under control of the Federal Government, may surprise the general public.

In California three national activities returned more to the Federal Treasury than it took out. These were the Post Office Department, the Labor Department and the Federal Power Commission. The Navy spent more than $32,000,000 in California, the Post Office Department $27,000,000, and the Interior Department almost $16,000,000.

Achieving Crowless Roosters

Oakland Tribune

The world stands greatly indebted to a certain Pasadena for a momentous discovery he has made, a discovery which under certain conditions, will add hours and hours of sleep to the sleepless, and may, indeed, result in building up in our metropolitan centers an industry which hitherto has been allowed to flourish only in sylvan retreats.

The Pasadena City Fathers met the other day "to find a solution for the vexing problem of whether or not to allow roosters to be kept in the city." Protests there were in plenty, but one communication was hailed with joy by the proponents of "chicken raising within city limits," for this communication read as follows:

"Twelve years ago I had the crowingest rooster that ever lived. But I fixed him and I didn't have to cut his head off to do it, either."

"I figured that a rooster has to get up on his toes and stretch his neck to the limit to get the music off his chest. Why not, I thought, fix it so he can't stretch?"

"I made a sort of moving awning on strong wires over the place where he roosted at night. Each night for about a week I lowered it a little, gradually, so the bird wouldn't catch on. Suddenly he found one night that he couldn't stretch his neck to crow—and he just quit crowing. That's all there was to it."

The discoverer of this system guarantees his system will solve the question "to the satisfaction of all concerned."

The one unfortunate feature of it is that his letter was an anonymous one, and his address more so.

Redlands Is Surprised

Redlands Facts

The action at law which has been begun against a number of defendants in this section by the Santa Ana Development company promises to add another long and expensive chapter to the water litigation of the state, unless the Legislature shall succeed in laying down some general principles in regard to water control in the state, which can be upheld on the plea of general use by all the people, with control vested in some recognized authority. The suit seems to be aimed especially at the development which is sending water over into the Moreno valley, out of the supply which comes to the surface on the Singleton ranch between Redlands and Beaumont. However, the Bear Valley Mutual Water company, the East Lugonia Water company and the Crafon Mutual Water company are all defendants along with the City of Redlands and the Moreno development owners. The action follows a threat made some time ago that such an action would be brought and while it is not looked upon very seriously by the Redlands defendants, yet may be made the cause of considerable expense. The strange slant to the suit is that Redlands has all along looked forward to the probable necessity of bringing an action against the Moreno development, and now finds herself a co-defendant.

HAD YOUR VITAMIN B TODAY? IF NOT, EAT SOME VEGETABLES

The first vitamin discovered was vitamin B. The disease known as beriberi, which results from a shortage of vitamin B, was described in Japanese medical literature at least 200 years B. C. It was apparently due to the fact that the diet was largely polished rice.

The fact was finally determined by the medical admiral of the Japanese navy in 1880, who changed the diets of the Japanese sailors and thereby eliminated the disease. In 1897 a Dutch physician proved definitely that the disease beriberi was due to a deficiency of something in the diet.

In ordinary persons who subsisted on normal diets and who may be subjected suddenly to a shortage of vitamin B, there develop general weakness, loss of appetite, disturbances of the digestion, disturbances of the various organs and tissues of the body generally, and apparently a lowered resistance to infection.

The disease beriberi is seldom seen in this country. On the other hand, the other symptoms related to a vitamin B shortage are not infrequent.

Fortunately the American diet contains most of the food substances which are rich in vitamin B. They include the leafy vegetables; fruits; cereal grains such as wheat, oats, corn, peas and beans; liver and kidneys. This vitamin is not found in fats and is absent from white flour, cornmeal that has been degenerated, polished rice, starch, sugar, glucose and similar substances.

Most physicians believe that it is unnecessary for a person to take extra vitamin B in the form of yeast or yeast extracts, or in the form of vitamin B concentrates, since this substance, like vitamin A, is likely to be found in any ordinary diet. There may be a use for such vitamin concentrates in persons subject to vitamin shortage because of restrictions in the diet due to disease.

What Is Democracy?

James Russell Lowell

I have hinted that what people are afraid of in democracy is less the thing itself than what they conceive to be its necessary adjuncts and consequences. It is supposed to reduce all mankind to a dead level of mediocrity in character and culture; to vulgarize men's conceptions of life, and therefore their code of morals, manners and conduct—to endanger the rights of property and possession. But I believe that the real gravamen of the charges lies in the habit it has of making itself generally disagreeable by asking the Powers that Be at the most inconvenient moment whether they are the powers that ought to be. If the powers that be are in a condition to give a satisfactory answer to this inevitable question, they need feel in no way discomfited by it.

Few people take the trouble of trying to find out what democracy really is. . . . Democracy is nothing more than an experiment in government, more likely to succeed in a new soil, but likely to be tried in all soils, which must stand or fall on its own merits as others have done before it.

President Lincoln defined democracy to be "the Government of The People, by The People, for The People." This is a sufficient compact statement of it as a political arrangement.

Theodore Parker said democracy meant not "I'm as good as you are," but "You're as good as I am." And this is the ethical conception of it, necessary as a complement of the other. . . . In this sense Christ was the first true democrat that ever breathed, as the old dramatist Dekker said he was the first true gentleman.

PRAYER

Prayer is the soul's sincere desire
Uttered 'd or unexpressed;
The motion of a hidden fire
That trembles in the breast.

Prayer is the burden of a sigh,
The falling of a tear;
The upward glancing of an eye,
When none but God is near.

Prayer is the simplest form of speech
Prayer the sublimest strains that reach
That infant lips can try;
The Majesty on high.

Prayer is the Christian's vital breath,
The Christian's native air;
His watchword at the gates of death—
He enters heaven by prayer.

Prayer is the contrite sinner's voice
Returning from his ways:
While angels in their songs rejoice,
And say, "Behold, he prays!"

—James Montgomery.

Time To Smile

A POSER

A bishop recently addressed a large assembly of Sunday school children, and wound up by asking, in a very paternal way:

"And now, is there any little boy or any little girl who would like to ask me a question?"

A thin, shrill voice at the back of the room called out, "Please, sir, why did the angels walk up and down Jacob's ladder when they had wings?"

"Oh, ah, yes—I see," said the bishop. "And now, is there any little girl who would like to answer that question?"—Vancouver Province.

The State's Population
May Double In 15 Years

Sacramento Bee

That California will double her population in the next 15 years is the interesting prediction of State Real Estate Commissioner Barnson.

He gives numerous reasons for this belief. Among them are the growing demand for small parcels of agricultural lands and suburban homes; the rapid establishment of many new industries, in both the cities and the country, the constant influx of home-seekers and new capital from the east, and the rapid rate of growth and development of the state for years past, which the commissioner says is increasing rather than declining.

It appears that in the 20 years between 1890 and 1910 the population of California was more than doubled—from but little over 1,000,000 to 2,377,000. In the last census (1920) it had risen to 3,426,000, and the latest estimate of the federal census bureau, in round numbers, credits the state with 5,000,000 inhabitants.

That means a gain of about 4,000,000 in less than 40 years—from the 1,000,000 in 1890.

At present, and for a long time past, Southern California has been getting the largest proportionate increase from outside sources. But there is a healthful, steady and permanent gain in most other parts of the state, including the great interior valley of the Sacramento and San Joaquin and its foothills; the cities and the country about the bays of San Francisco, San Pablo and Suisun, and various cities and counties along the coast and in the mountain regions.

All this growth is being made without feverish speculation or "boom" methods. It is largely due, no doubt, to legitimate advertising; to systematic, intelligent and truthful spread of information relative to the superior climatic and other attractions of the state; her vast wealth of natural resources, and her freedom from destructive tornadoes, ruinous droughts, severe winters and other serious drawbacks to life in many parts of the Union.

There need be no fear that California will be "overdone," overpopulated or crowded, as feared for a long period to come. Her present population is only 26 to the square mile, while Ohio has 155 and Illinois 123, with other states of the East in like proportion.

Moreover, the newcomers are not creating an over-supply of labor. A large proportion of them are persons of means, with savings or accumulated profits to enable them to purchase homes, engage in business or otherwise provide for the future. There is nothing similar to a "gold rush" or a speculative Florida land boom in our state's present growth and development.

Big Gain in Wages

United States Daily

Time wage rates of union labor, in the period from May, 1925, to May, 1926, show an increase of 2.5 times the hourly rate of 1913, and 2.8 times the rate of 1907, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, Labor Department.

The Bureau has just published the results of a survey of union scales of wages and hours in 1926. Between May, 1925, and May, 1926, bricklayers and carpenters received an increase of eight cents an hour, while bakers had their wages decreased five cents an hour, according to the survey.

The statement follows in full: As between May, 1925, and May, 1926, union bakers in the United States had a reduction in wages per hour from an average of 9.9 cents to 9.25 cents. The building trades as a whole had an increase from an average of $1.199 to $1.278 per hour.

The bricklayers went from an average of $1.475 to $1.565, carpenters from $1.184 to $1.267, painters from $1.232 to $1.305, plasterers from $1.455 to $1.595, plumbers from $1.281 to $1.381. Similar changes took place in the other building trades.

Stone cutters had an increase from $1.235 to $1.404 per hour. Laundry workers had a decrease from 44.4 cents to 44.1 cents. Longshoremen received an increase from 28.8 cents to 33.5 cents.

The book and job printing trades collectively had an increase from 97.5 cents per hour to 99.7 cents. The newspaper printing trades as a group had an increase from $1.130 to $1.155.

All of the above trade groups, plus a few others, had an increase from a general average of $1.091 in 1925 to $1.148 in 1926. Street railway mormen and conductors not included in the above grand average had an increase from 65.1 cents to 66.2 cents per hour.

The figures quoted are drawn from Bulletin 431, published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the Department of Labor and recently off the press. The bulletin includes reports for 824,313 trade union members employed at time rates in 66 leading cities.

Trades in which the workers are employed at piece rates are not included in the study. Summary figures from the above bulletin were published in the September and November, 1926, Monthly Labor Review.

The workers in these time wage trades had an average full time of 45.4 hours per week. The building trades are almost entirely on a 44-hour week with 8 hours per day and 4 hours on Saturday.

The grand average for the building trades was 43.8 hours per week. The newspaper printing trades had an average of 45.3 hours per week.

The union trades referred to, as a whole, had a time wage rate per hour in 1926 2.5 times the hourly rate of 1913 and 2.8 times the hourly rate of 1907. Between 1913 and 1926 full-time hours per week were reduced 7.2 per cent.

The building trades, as a whole, had an average rate in 1926 2.48 times the rate in 1913.

The Kangaroo

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

HOW the children exclaim over this strange animal which sits on its three-legged stool made from two giant hind legs and a mammoth tail, and then, suddenly rising, leaps as much as fifteen feet with one spring of those same great legs. The kangaroo is one of the few remaining marsupials, or animals which provide pockets to carry their young. Our southern opossum is the only American survival of that type. The young are born prematurely and then carried in the pocket till they are grown. The kangaroo babies are placed in their nursery when not more than two inches long and are carried till they sometimes weigh ten pounds. At first they are so undeveloped they cannot even suck the mother's milk but place their mouths over the nipples and she pumps the milk to them at intervals. Remarkably queer and interesting beast!

IF IN Australia you went hunting

You'd see the kangaroo so curious
Who, with his mammoth tail and hind legs,
Goes hoppy-hop quite fast and furious.
No other land has kangaroos
Unless, perhaps, they're kept in zoos.

The kangaroo's small head is pointed
With perky ears quite like Br'er Rabbit.
He doesn't walk but with great hind legs
He leaps for yards as is his habit,
I think it was a Kangaroo
Instead of Boss who jumped the moon!

When Mrs. Kangaroo goes shopping
She puts her babies in her pocket
Lined soft with plush as any cradle,
And fixed so she can shut and lock it;
Then, as she leaps and springs about
The Kango babies can't fall out.
